DECISION ON WATER DUE NEXT WEEK

Engineers Leave for Upper Sacramento and Eel Rivers in Tour of Four Sources of Supply for Eastbay

Goethals, Mulholland and Davis Complete View of Hetch Hetchy, Mokelumne and Rio Vista Projects

ON THE picture page of today's Daily Magazine Section will be found illustrations of proposed water sites and snapshots of the group of eminent engineers who are making surveys for Oakland in its search for an unlimited supply of pure water at a reasonable cost.

By E. S. PLADWELL.

The decisive inspection and comparison of the four possible water sources for the Eastbay cities, and one optional plan, is now half completed by Arthur P. Davis, General George W. Goethals and William Mulholland, the eminent engineers authorized to select the Eastbay's project and to recommend their findings to the directors of the Eastbay Municipal Utilities District.

Hetch Hetchy was inspected Saturday. The Mokelumne project was visited Monday. The proposed Sacramento river diversion plan at Rio Vista was looked into yesterday. This morning at 8 o'clock the party slipped out of Oakland to complete their close-up views of the Upper Sacramento project and the Eel River plan.

RECOMMENDATIONS TO BE MADE PUBLIC NEXT WEEK.

Chief Engineer Arthur P. Davis asserts that he plans to thresh it out with his consultants immediately after the inspection trips, so that their recommendation can be made public early next week.

Goethals and Mulholland are scheduled to be in other places next week, and, pursuant to their engagements, say they intend to be on time.

Before the arrival of Goethals and Mulholland, Davis had been over all the proposed projects before and had narrowed the real possibilities down to four. Maps, cost data, statistics and all sorts of other information were collected in his office, and Goethals and Mulholland were already thoroughly cognizant of the projects. The inspection trip, therefore, was fast but thorough; mostly visual examination without comment, done to refresh their memories after being on the ground. No data were taken except a few maps. A fast automobile took the party from place to place, so that an enormous amount of territory was covered.

ENGINEERS DECLINE TO INSPECT OTHER PROJECTS.

No side-issues were permitted. Resident Engineer L. F. McAfee of the Hetch Hetchy project gave a warm invitation for the party to visit the Priest dam and the hydro-electric units at Moccasin Creek, but the party declined.

"It is interesting as an example of engineering," said Mulholland, "but it has nothing to do with our problem, which is water."

Plans originally made by Davis, as chief engineer and guide, were changed many times, so as to cover as much space as possible. The party started to visit the Hetch Hetchy by train, but found itself inextricably mixed with an outing of the Lafayette club of San Francisco, the second largest visit to Hetch Hetchy by any San Francisco organization. The Davis-Goethals-Mulholland tour, which started as an independent professional visit, was quickly surrounded by an aura of profound admiration and French language, spending the night in a crowded shanty at Mather with two French workmen. Goethals said he enjoyed it, and at a camp-fire under the big trees at Mather he spoke for a brief moment, being roundly applauded. Davis and Mulholland were in bed.

HETCH HETCHY VIEWED FROM OBSERVATION CAR.

The tour of Hetch Hetchy was made from the hurricane deck of an observation car. All the salient points were looked at, but it was "old stuff" to the engineers and their examination, it was admitted, brought little that was new.

The party had their car brought from Oakland to Mather, and embarked there for Stockton, where they rested. On Monday morning, early, they went to Lancha Plana, above Lockeford, where, accompanied by engineers of the Eastbay Utilities District, they drove through fields and small hills to a dry-wash country just off the main Mokelumne river, reaching the end of the line, where horses were available. A horseback ride of two miles along the sides of steep hills brought the party to the proposed site of the Lancha Plana dam, a "V" canyon with steep side hills blessed with good perpendicular rock, where a dam 1100 feet wide and 300 feet high could be constructed, backing up the Mokelumne to fill a lake several miles long and shaped like a three-pointed jellyfish.

DAVID P. BARROWS, former president of the University of California, who has announced his candidacy for the office of water director.

BARROWS OUT FOR WATER DIRECTOR

Former President of U. C. Will Oppose Bartlett in Utilities Election.

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—Colonel David P. Barrows, former president of the University of California, today announced his candidacy as a director in the second district of the Eastbay Municipal Utilities district.

He will oppose at the polls former Mayor Louis Bartlett of Berkeley, a present member of the board of directors.

Dr. Barrows explained that he entered the candidacy for water director in the second district of Berkeley because he had been pressed to do so by many friends in this city. The board of directors of the district will have in charge the disposition of some $60,000,000 of public money in case the proposed water bonds carry.

STATEMENT TELLS OBJECT OF ACTION.

In announcing his candidacy Colonel Barrows issued the following statement.

"The most pressing interest of our Eastbay community is the water supply. The limits of local water development have been reached. No addition can be secured except by going to a more distant source. The rapid growth of this community is demanding each month an expansion of the water company's service. The president of the company has stated that under present conditions, within four years no more water connections can be made. If the problem is not immediately solved, the splendid industrial growth of the Eastbay cities must, by 1928, be arrested and further settlers warned away.

PUBLIC UTILITY CAN MEET THE PROBLEM.

"The power exists in this community, fully to meet this critical problem if prompt action is taken. In 1915 concerted action of over 50 civic clubs and local improvement associations of the Eastbay district secured a law enabling the formation of public utilities districts. Two years ago such a district was formed by vote of the people of Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Piedmont, Richmond, El Cerrito, San Leandro, Emeryville, and Albany. The territory embraced in these cities formed a corporate unity may acquire properties, incur debt, and administer as public enterprises the utilities which this community requires, of which the most important is water supply. The business of the district is entrusted by law to five directors who form a lay board with power to employ expert staffs and business management. At the election on November 4, the day of the presidential election, there will occur a re-election of these five directors, with whom must rest the initiative in formulating policies adequate to this community's urgent need.

"Numerous friends in the 'second electoral district' of the Eastbay Utilities District have expressed to me their desire that I stand for election as director from this district. I am sufficiently informed as to the pressing nature of the problem to make me feel that I have, perhaps, a public responsibility which I should test by standing for election. I have accordingly decided to be a candidate for election as director from the second district."

Dr. Barrows became superintendent of schools in Manila, P. I., in 1900, three years later succeeded to the directorship of education throughout the Philippine Islands. His connection with the University

EDY ATTACKS OAKLAND AS FIRE SLACKER

Colbourn Replies City Cannot Legally Contribute to Prevention Fund to Be Used Outside the Limits

Berkeley's Manager Charges Neighboring Cities Get the Benefit of Hill Patrols and Should Share Expense

Alleged failure of Oakland to cooperate with Berkeley and the Contra Costa hills fire protection committee to prevent another conflagration, was at the bottom of a controversy today between City Manager John N. Edy of Berkeley, and Fank Colbourn, commissioner of public health and safety for Oakland.

The attack by City Manager Edy was based on Oakland's failure to appropriate $6000 for fire protection in the hills. Commissioner Colbourn says City Attorney Leon Gray has ruled that this cannot legally be done, and declares further that Berkeley officials have not approached him with any concrete plan.

OAKLAND SAVED "BY GRACE OF GOD."

"The most discouraging thing in looking back over the achievements since Berkeley was visited by its disastrous fire is the lack of cooperation by some of our adjoining cities to prevent a recurrence of last yea's catastrophe," declared the Berkeley city manager today. "Oakland was spared from destuction last year only by the grace of God. Had the wind not shifted, Oakland would have been in ruins.

"Not one cent has Oakland or certain other cities contributed to the work carried on by the Contra Costa hills fire protection committee. While this is technically an unofficial body it assumes an official status. City officials of Oakland, Berkeley and other cities are included in the membership."

"WHY SHOULD THEY NOT SHARE EXPENSE?"

"Berkeley has already spent $3500 from its budget for such work and, if more is needed, I am ready to take it from my $8000 emergency fund for I can conceive of no better way to use city money than to safeguard life and property.

"This protection not only means much for the city of Berkeley but it also affords security for Oakland, Piedmont and other adjoining communities. Why should they not share the expense for such a community project? Our appeals for cooperation have not only been refused but they have been scoffed at. Recently when Oakland was menaced by fire in the Redwood Peak region, Berkeley's new volunteer fire-fighting brigade went gladly to help in keeping back the spread of the flames. That is as it should be—friendly cooperation for a common good.

"We need $1000 to complete the fire warden's house on Grizzly Peak. Berkeley's appropriation for this fire protection work has been fully given. We are ready to do more but it is time for other cities to aid."

OAKLAND OFFICIAL CITES ACHIEVEMENTS.

Colbourn replied:

"We are not unmindful of the danger, and Oakland is doing what it can do legally. I am now working out a plan with Fire Chief Sam Short to construct lookout stations on the hills within the city limits and to assign firemen with motorcycles as a patrol system. The lookout tower without the patrol would be inadequate. While the proposed appropriation for this purpose was slashed from the budget, I expect to take the necessary money from my departmental budget."

"As a further fire protection," declared Colbourn, "I am advocating the proposition to extend the Skyline boulevard as a fire break, and we are working to this end in cooperation with the county supervisors."

Fire Chief Short declared that 250 water barrels had been placed in the hills and a man was on duty to keep them filled and to report any fires. He added the fire department had given $1000 to the park department toward maintaining six rangers with horses to patrol the hills. The water company and estates with extensive property holdings in the hills were also maintaining fire patrols, he said.

U. S. Takes Marines From Honduras

Two Die of Gas Asphyxiation as Motorist Delays Life-Saving Unit

Workmen Overcome by Carbon Monoxide Fumes; Autoist Arrested.

Two men were killed by carbon monoxide gas asphyxiation today while cleaning out a distillate plant on the steam schooner Northland at the Moore Shipbuilding company's plant on the Oakland estuary. They were P. Pasquale, 23, of 5503 Claremont avenue, and Frank Mussatti, 29, of 366 Fifty-first street. Mussatti was married.

An automobile collision which delayed members of the fire department in reaching the men with lung motors, may have been partially responsible for their deaths. By the time the life-saving devices could be applied the men were beyond the possibility of resuscitation.

WOMAN HELD FOR DELAYING FIRE TRUCK.

Mrs. Esther Nichols, colored, of 3432 Hannah street, whose automobile collided with the fire apparatus, was placed under arrest for violating the state law requiring automobiles to stop in response to the police and fire sirens.

The two men had been working for some time in the schoner's distillate plant, according to officials of the Moore company, when it was discovered that Pasquale was overcome. Workmen went to his rescue and dragged him into the open air. It was then discovered that Mussatti was also overcome, and the workmen formed a second rescue party for him.

WORKROOM FILLED WITH CARBON MONOXIDE GAS.

Investigation showed that the place where the two men had been working was filled with carbon monoxide gas.

In response to a telephone call from the shipyard, Battalion Fire Chief Monte Carroll started for the shipyard with a lung motor. At Ninth and Clay streets Mrs. Nichols is said to have driven into his path, causing a collision. The fire department automobile was wrecked, and it was necessary for Carroll to summon another by telephone before he could continue on his way.

Fire department officials said that the five or ten minutes lost through the collision might have meant the saving of both men's lives.

Circlers Make 440-Mile Hop From Chicago; Oklahoma Is Goal Tomorrow.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

UNITED STATES AIR MAIL FIELD, FORT CROOK, near Omaha, Sept. 17. — America's around the world army fliers, en route to the west coast, added about 440 more miles to their long journey today when they flew here from Chicago.

They landed here, about ten miles south of Omaha, at 12:55 p. m. (Central standard time), 4 hours and 44 minutes from the time they left Chicago, at 8:11 a. m.

Several thousands persons were at the field when the planes circled overhead and came to a landing near the air mail hangar.

Lieutenant Lowell Smith, commander, said that so far as he knew, he and his companions would go from here to St. Joseph, Mo., and thence to Muskogee, Okla., where they are scheduled to spend tomorrow night.

Lieutenant Leigh Wade's sister, Mrs. C. A. Francis of Denver, whom he had not seen since a year ago last April, was on the field to greet him.

Humphreys' Jury Still Deadlocked

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Locked up last night after being "hopelessly deadlocked" following four hours of deliberation, the jury in the case of Thomas V. Humphreys of Oakland, on trial for the second time following an automobile accident in which his automobile killed Olga Erlandson and injured her sister Athild, was returned to the jury room this morning to resume operations.

Twice during last night before being taken to a hotel, the jury notified Superior Judge Louis Ward that it was unable to agree. Humphreys, acquitted of the manslaughter charge, is being tried for failure to stop and give relief to his victim.

EXACT SITE OF SUTTER'S MILL FOUND

Phil Bekeart of S. F. Digs Up Old Saw and Timber of Historic Edifice From Bed of American River

Life-long Ambition Is Won by Former Coloma Man When Location of Cradle of State Gold Is Fixed

An old rusty saw, a piece of rapidly disintegrating timber, and a heap of rotting sawdust discovered eight feet underground in the old bed of the American river constitutes one of the rarest antiquarian discoveries of California. These relics of a by-gone day fixed beyond further disputation the exact location of Sutter's mill, frontier outpost of civilization in the West, and the cradle of California's fortunes.

Discovery of the ruins of the old mill was confirmed today by Phil Bekeart, of the Phil B. Bekeart company, 717 Market street, San Francisco. The specimens were removed from the excavations in the old river bed near Coloma five weeks ago and were brought to San Francisco under heavy insurance.

Bekeart, a native of Coloma, has satisfied a life-long ambition to solve the mystery as to the exact location of the old mill. He has the fragment of a partly-sawn log, the evidence of the sawdust heap, and perhaps, all that remains of the saw itself to indicate to posterity the exact site of this historic structure.

GOLD FOUND IN MILL TAIL-RACE.

It was in the tail-race of Sutter's mill that James W. Marshall first discerned the "color" that brought the hordes of fortune-seekers over the mountains and plains from the East to lay the groundwork for this commonwealth. Oddly enough, reports say that gold was found in the excavations of Bekeart in the dry river bed on the very site of the old mill, at this time when the "washings" and "diggings" of the state have been almost exhausted.

But even before the mill boss, Marshall, discovered California's great secret in the silt of the tail-race, Sutter's fort, forty miles below the mill, was a place of great historic importance. The fort, near the present site of Sacramento, was the Western goal of the overland trains because it signified that the hardships and perils of the journey to the Pacific were ended.

The community that sprang up around the fort in this primitive land needed a saw mill, and when Marshall, a sawyer, arrived, he was set to work by Sutter at the ask of building the mill on a site forty miles above the fort.

TROUBLE WITH TRASH BRINGS DISCOVERY.

When the dam was completed Marshall found difficulty in keeping the tail race free from obstructions, and he opened the sluice gate every night to allow the debris that had collected during the day to wash through.

One day Marshall went out in the morning to close the gate preparatory to beginning the day's work, and the gleam of tiny particles in the silt around the sluice gate caught his eye. He examined the particles and found they were gold.

Sutter and Marshall tried to keep the big secret to themselves, but news got among the other men at the mill and in a comparatively short time the entire countryside was being sifted by eager miners. In the scramble for riches the old settler was submerged, and his mill disappeared from the face of the earth. Even the course of the river was altered.

Sutter's mill is a familiar name to the school children of the state, but until Bekeart's discovery there was no man who could tell just where it was. It was known that it had been located "about 40 miles above the fort," and that was as close as the histories ever got.

Future generations, possibly, may view the reproduction of the old mill upon the very site where it did service for California when California was a wilderness.

Failed to Die With Mother

Three-year-old LILA LASSEN, who survived gas fumes with which her mother, Mrs. F. A. Lassen, attempted to take the lives of herself and child. The mother died.

MOTHER KILLS SELF; BABY SAVED

Woman Calls Child From Play and Turns on All Gas Jets in House.

Calling her three-year-old daughter, Lila, in from a game of "playing house" with neighbor children, Mrs. F. A. Lassen turned on all the gas burners in her home at 2452 Sixty-fourth avenue, and sat down to await the death of herself and her child. Half an hour later Mrs. Lassens' body was lying on a slab at the morgue, and Lila was again playing house with the other children in a neighbor's back yard.

The police were today trying to solve the mystery of how the baby survived the gas fumes that killed the mother. The child was lying unconscious on the floor when found by John Skowran, a carpenter who was working next door, and who broke into the Lassen place when he detected the odor of gas. She was quickly revived, and was placed in the care of Mrs. Catherine Carr, 2466 Sixty-fourth avenue.

Mrs. Lassen was found seated in a chair, and was already dead.

Despondency because her husband, Fletcher A. Lassen, a Southern Pacific brakeman, had separated from her several weeks ago, was believed by the police today to have been the motive for Mrs. Lassens' act. Her intent to commit suicide was indicated, the police said, by the fact that all the cracks in the windows and doors had been stopped up, and seven gas jets, in a stove and a waterheater, had been turned on full force. Mrs. Lassen was 38 years old.

35 BODIES TAKEN FROM MINE TOMB

Two Hundred Prosecute Rescue Work With Vigor; Few Victims Remain.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

KEMMERER, Wyo., Sept. 17.—Rescue parties penetrating the debris-laden workings of the mine of the Kemmerer Coal company at Sublet, near here, today had recovered the bodies of 35 miners, victims of yesterday's explosion.

Rescue work went forward this morning. The rain which prevailed yesterday had stopped and the 200 men who struggled through the wreckage, hopeful that they would find some of their comrades alive, kept at their task with little rest.

By 9:30 o'clock this morning they had forced their way into the mouth of the mine. The fan kept a stream of pure air pouring into the wrecked workings, and this is held responsible for the escape of the twelve men who came out alive. Continued operation of the fan is the basis for a slight hope that some of the unaccounted men may be found alive.

Martin Cahill, president of the Wyoming district of the United Mine Workers of America, is at the scene of the explosion, giving such aid to the stricken families as is possible. The majority of the men in the mine when the explosion occurred were married and had children. The mine has been producing about 1200 tons of coal daily of late. Under normal conditions several hundred men are employed, but recently this force has been considerably reduced.

Twelve men emerged from the mine early last night unharmed. They were saved from death by a cave-in that cut off the deadly gases accumulating in the mine after the blast.

WHITE HOUSE DENIES SPLIT WITH WILBUR

Secretary Recalled Solely for Discussion of Navy Needs, Says Statement Issued at Direction of the President

Aircraft Development, Easing Up on Battleship Construction Said to Be New Policy Favored by Coolidge

By H. K. REYNOLDS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur has been recalled to Washington from the Pacific Coast to consult with President Coolidge on naval problems and not because of any public statements he has made on international relations or politics, it was announced officially at the White House today.

The formal announcement from the White House followed the widespread publication of reports that Secretary Wilbur's speeches during his western trip, especially with respect to the relations between the United States and Japan, had been displeasing to the President.

STATEMENT ISSUED ON PRESIDENT'S ORDER.

The White House statement was issued at the President's direction to quiet any rumors of dissension between himself and Secretary Wilbur over the naval budget plans, now a subject of controversy between the navy department and the bureau of the budget. The White House statement said:

"It was officially denied at the White House that the President had heard of any criticism of any speeches made on the coast by Secretary Wilbur, or any comments concerning them other than that they had been very helpful.

"The President has the highest regard for the character of service Secretary Wilbur has rendered as head of the navy and sent for the secretary solely to consult with him concerning the navy, telegraphing him that important naval matters made it necessary to see him at once."

The President's telegram reached Wilbur at San Diego, Cal., and he is en route to Washington on a transcontinental express, expecting to arrive here in time for the cabinet meeting when consideration of the naval budget problem is to be resumed.

MORE AIR CRAFT FLEETS HOPE OF PRESIDENT.

President Coolidge believes that a way can always be found to save money and at the same time supply the needs of the government. In the case of the navy, the saving is to be accomplished by easing up on appropriations for building and maintaining battleships cost about $40,000,000 each, and by using the money for airplanes, costing about $25,000 each. Of course, a greater number of airplanes would be required, but aeronautical officials point out that even then there would be a wide disparity between the first costs of a maritime and an air fleet.

It was explained at the navy department today that the administration's approval of more extended aircraft development does not mean that there would be any sudden abandoning of battleships but that a gradual and definite augmenting of the air defenses may be expected.

Mokelumne River Advantages Seen By Water Expert

Here are some of the features of the Mokelumne river project, examined on Sunday by Davis, Goethals and Mulholland as the second of the four great projects on their list:

Shorter distance to Oakland than Hetch Hetchy.

Damsite at Lancha Plana far lower in the mountains than the Hetch Hetchy dam.

Pure water with an uncontaminated watershed.

A generous supply, with a storage possibility of 200,000,000 gallons, or enough to supply 2,000,000 persons at an average daily consumption of 100 gallons per day Some cities use nearly 275 gallons per capita, while others are as low as 35 or 40. At 200 gallons per day, it is estimated that the main dam can supply a population of 1,000,000.

Comparatively cheap lands around project.

Estimated construction one year quicker than Hetch Hetchy.

Possibility of income from storm waters by means of a spillway which will divert all excess waters into a lower and cheaper dam at Dry Creek, to supply all claims of irrigationists, to sell water to towns along the way, and to earn an income which will decrease the taxes of the Oakland taxpayer.

dam, Davis explained, could amount to 200,000,000 gallons The excess waters during the stormy season instead of being lost by wastage, could be allowed to run over a spillway some distance up from the dam and then shunted through a long valley where a comparatively cheap dam could impound these waters for the use of irrigators or for sale generally.

Davis explained:

"The utilization of the Mokelumne could be made almost complete, and we could satisfy any claims of agriculturalists in the valley without using the main waters intended for Oakland."

The dam site is in the lower foothills and much nearer the bay cities than the Hetch Hetchy dam Davis explained to his colleagues that the upper reaches of the Mokelumne are uncontaminated and the supply could be kept that way.

General Goethals, with Mulholland, listened, asked specific questions, and made no comment. It was agreed that statements would not be made until the whole trip is over and all the evidence examined.

INSPECTION KEEN AND THOROUGH.

The inspections, however, were keen and thorough They involved discussions concerning volume, soil, purity, runoff, watershed additions or subtractions, evaporation, prior claims, distances, transportation and comparative costs of materials. Much of the discussion on this project was done alongside a line of horses on an old mining-flume grade just above the steep cliff of the Mokelumne hills at the dam site.

Goethals and Mulholland walked back from the dam site to the automobiles. The sun's heat was according to several natives who held the horses, fairly cool but still "just under a million degrees."

The Lancha Plana dam site is almost on a straight line between Ione and San Andreas.

After luncheon at Ione, the party drove through all sorts of dry grass and oak tree acres for some sixteen miles and inspected the Dry Creek site of the proposed storm-water dam some distance south of Ione. Thereafter they drove to Sacramento.

Yesterday morning the party came down the river-island route to Rio Vista, where they examined a site which has been mentioned for a possible pumping plant which would send the waters of the Sacramento at Rio Vista to Oakland and the Eastbay. This is an alternative project called the "Lower Sacramento" idea.

Davis asserted that he has not yet collected the opinions of his colleagues on this or other questions, taking the stand that all will be threshed out when the whole journey is through and the arguments begin The visiting consulting engineers are seeing and studying Davis, however, asserted that he was not over-enthusiastic about this Rio Vista plan at present, for two main reasons.

1—There is a certain element of danger from the sewage of Sacramento, and Sacramento is a growing city.

2—As the waters of California's rivers are used for irrigation by a growing population, less and less water will flow down the Sacramento In consequence, the salt water flowing up from the bay will go higher up the river at high tides, as it has crept up for the past few years

"The project looks splendid at first glance," said Davis. "Here is plenty of water and at a comparatively cheap rate; but investment in this project might become the most expensive in the long run Of course this is under consideration and there are no final verdicts as yet, but from the standpoints I have enumerated, the projects has certain disadvantages."

Goethals and Mulholland made no comments as usual.

PARTY STUDIES PITTSBURG PIPE LINE PROJECT.

The party then went to Pittsburg and studied the location of possible pipe-line or aqueduct sites along the northern shoulder of Mount Diablo, glancing at various places, and then returning last night to Oakland.

No notes were taken by Davis, Goethals or Mulholland during the whole trip. Comments were rare, though questions were plentiful The vast mass of data already collected will be studied upon the return of the party. Otherwise, Davis took little except maps.

"To the speed of this inspection we give credit to the automobile," said Davis. "Otherwise it might have taken a month and more. We can do the job better, more thoroughly and much quicker nowadays than ten years ago. It's mostly the automobile."

To the automobile Davis attributes the fact that the Lancha Plana dam system, never discovered in its full possibilities until recently, has been developed to a point which was not considered when Engineer Freeman made about thirteen studies of a Mokelumne river scheme.

According to present schedule, the Del and Upper Sacramento will be inspected in three days. The engineers will then go into conference and each possibly making up their minds by that time, will reach a decision and, probably, ask a special session of the East Bay Utility District directors and tender a report

"We do not expect to submit a perfect scheme," said Goethals, in one of his rare assertions. "There is no such thing as an absolutely perfect scheme; but it is our aim to present one which seems to be the best available for service considering the cost."

Volume, Purity, Low Cost Sought In Water Survey

Here are the major elements which are being considered by Arthur P. Davis, General George Goethals and William Mulholland in their search for the future water supply for the Eastbay cities. The items are all important, but not necessarily in the order of mention, according to Davis:

1—Volume of water.
2—Unit cost.
3—Availability.
4—Purity of water.
5—Engineering obstructions to overcome
6—Length of line from Oakland.
7—Transportation for materials to site.
8—Speed of development.
9—Back-country development questions.
10—Possibility of income from the sale of water.

"It is our object," says Davis, "to get the biggest and best project within our means. Everything else is subordinate to that. Some very desirable schemes must be ruled out because they are financially impossible."

NORTHERN WATER COSTLY FOR S. F. AVAILABLE HERE

Engineering Problems Greater on Peninsula, Says Davis in Discussing Route.

"The geographical reasons which affected San Francisco's choice of Hetch Hetchy as a water source do not apply to the Eastbay cities A glance at the map will show that San Francisco's problem was lessened by a southerly project which could bring water up the peninsula. The Eastbay cities have no such problem Northern sources, which would have caused San Francisco great added expense or engineering problems, are by no means closed to the Eastbay."

This statement concerning the relation of the Eastbay to the Hetch Hetchy project was made by Arthur P. Davis, chief engineer of the Eastbay Municipal Utility District. Davis, however, asserted that this was neither a "knock" nor a "boost" on Hetch Hetchy, but a plain statement of fact

"If my colleagues and myself do decide on Hetch Hetchy," admits Davis "it is fairly safe to say that water will be transported via Altamont Pass rather than the adopted San Francisco line which specifies 31 miles of tunnels. The choice of the Altamont Pass route is the one point which has been practically decided upon thus far, and that point hinges on whether or not Hetch Hetchy is chosen."

Donor of Park to City of San Francisco Leaves Large Fortune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Mrs Arabella D Huntington, wife of Henry E. Huntington of Alabama, a well known book collector, died here last night. Her first husband was A. D Warsham, also of Alabama, and her second was Collis Huntington, railroad magnate, uncle of her third husband. Mrs Huntington donated large sums to educational institutions, especially those devoted to the development of the negro race.

Huntington and his wife were left millions by Collis P Huntington and the combined fortunes will make the widower one of America's wealthiest men. The couple were married eleven years ago. He is 76 years old.

Henry Edwards Huntington possesses a fammous collection of rare books, manuscripts and other art. Collis P. Huntington was also noted as an art and book collector, and Mrs Huntington assisted him in this avocation. He left $22,000,000 to her and $8,000,000 to his nephew.

Henry Edwards Huntington has spent more than $1,000,000 a year for the last six years on his library, while his art collections include the famous Gainsborough "Blue Boy," for which he paid the Duke of Westminster $640,000.

Mrs. Huntington presented Huntington park on Nob Hill to the city of San Francisco.

The site was formerly occupied by the Collis P. Huntington home, one of the most historic in San Francisco, which was destroyed in the fire of 1906.

Mrs. Huntington deeded the property to the city on February 16, 1917, stipulating that it be made into a children's playground and park for women.

"Your Fault if Son Errs," Parents Told

Describing the activities of the Oakland Big Sisters before a luncheon of the Commercial Service League at the Hotel Oakland yesterday, Mrs. Sidney Haslett, president of the organization, stated that the parents, not the boys and girls themselves, should be blamed when the younger generation does wrong.

"If the boy or girl cannot get the fun, beauty or love he or she craves in the home, it will be looked for elsewhere. And the first person, no matter who it may be, who offers these things will be quickly accepted as a friend."

In closing Mrs Haslett stated that there should be no boy or girl problem if fathers and mothers would shoulder the responsibility that is theirs and provide attractive home surroundings.

ESKIMO BELIEVE RADIO WOUND UP LIKE PHONOGRAPH

Explorer MacMillan Tells How Arctic Folk Receive Newest Inventions.

WISCASSET, Maine, Sept. 17.—Motion picture competition found its way even into the Arctic waste last winter, according to Captain Donald B. MacMillan, whose expedition returning after fifteen months in the north, was nearing this port today.

When the schooner Bowdoin carrying the MacMillan party, left last year part of her equipment was a motion picture outfit. The explorers believed that they would be the sole proprietors of a picture show in the Arctic region, but when they reached Greenland they were invited to attend a motion picture entertainment on board the Canadian government steamer Arctic.

"We took the two ultra modern developments—motive picture and radio—direct to a people who live and think exactly as their ancestors did two thousand years ago." Dr. MacMillan said. "What did they think of them? I don't know. The interpreters said they expressed wonder and believed the white man could do anything. For my part I think some of them believed the radio was merely a machine like the phonograph that we wound up below decks. We told them the people they heard speaking were thousands of miles away, but I doubt if many of them were capable of understanding. It must have been a severe tax upon their primitive imagination."

Dr. MacMillan, who has announced that he would be back again on his way north for another Arctic expedition next June, said that his observations on the trip just closed convinced him that white men could exist anywhere that the Eskimo can.

U. S. Scientists in Lapland Film Lemmings' Life

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Sept. 17.—American scientists have just taken the first film ever obtained of the migration of lemmings, mole-like animals, one of the most unique phenomena of the animal world.

Dr. Clyde E. Fisher, a curator of the American Museum of Natural History, and Carveth Wells, now here from a recent trip to Lapland, say that a curious and absolutely unique film is that of the lemmings. These rodents seem to multiply in teeming numbers at irregular intervals, and are now more multitudinous than they have been for eighteen years. A wanderer above the tree line in the Lapland mountains may suddenly see the ground covered by them for miles. They come by the millions, swimming rivers and climbing over mountain ridges. Then either for lack of food or in conflict with natural enemies, they perish in masses.

The Americans declared that they had missed nothing of natural interest in Lapland. They even took special films of the mosquitoes.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 17. — For the past 36 hours the rival Kiangsu and Chekiang armies have been deadlocked in fierce battles waged along a front approximately 100 miles long west of Shanghai. Fighting continued throughout the night and the Shanghai Volunteer corps was called out when it was believed the fighting lines might be drawn close to the city.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 17. — Railway service throughout China is completely demoralized today as a result of civil war. Trade is virtually at a standstill, shipping firms being especially hard hit. No goods are coming at all from the country districts

The Shanghai-Nanking railway has been cut for two weeks. The Peking-Mukden line is now given over entirely to the movement of troops with Marshal Wu Pei Fu and General Chang Tso Lin rushing thousands of soldiers to the region of the great wall. Peking reports the seizure of 2000 railway cars.

Marshal Wu Pei Fu, military dictator of Peking, is sending his own third division to the front to meet an attack from the Mukden forces.

Wu has arrived at Peking, leaving Enlo Yang in command of the government troops in the field.

Chang Threatens To Bomb Peking

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE
BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

PEKING, Sept. 7. — Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord, who has cleared war on the Peking government, is said to have sent a communication to President Tsao Kun containing a veiled threat to bomb Peking.

The report concerning the communication came from a foreign source in Mukden, the Manchurian city which is Chang's headquarters. The communication was said to have detailed the circumstances which had impelled Chang to take military action. It then stated that since Tsao Kun was only a "puppet" of the central government's leading militarist, Wu Pei-Fu, it was Chang's intention with a few days to send to Peking some of his subordinates in an airplane, to convey his respects to the president and inquire of his welfare.

Chang next stated, according to the report, that he feared, since his envoys would be only "rough soldiers" that they might behave discourteously.

Fighters Gain on San Gabriel Blaze

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

PASADENA, Sept. 17.—Possibility of controlling the San Gabriel mountain forest fire, which has laid waste more than 50,000 acres during the past sixteen days, was considered bright today, providing the wind remains at a lull. Backfires were resumed during the night, and unless the wind sweeps them out of control, it is considered possible that the main blaze may soon be surrounded.

Four men are recovering in the general hospital in Los Angeles from severe burns sustained while battling the flames

The flames sweeping south toward Monrovia have reached the point where they hold a real menace to that city it was reported today. Hundreds of men have worked steadily for the past 24 hours constructing firebreaks about the city.

Recruits to the ranks of beasts of burden used in fighting the fire are asked in a general appeal.

Bodies of many horses and mules used in carrying food and water to the fighters are stretched along the various trails leading to the front. The animals fell dead in their tracks, victims of exhaustion.

WHEELER FEARS HOSTILE COURT ACTION IN OHIO

La Follette's Running Mate Issues Defiant Message to Daugherty's Friends.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—A statement that he expected to be made the object of civil litigation in Ohio arising out of his political position and declarations was issued here today by Senator Wheeler of Montana, vice-presidential candidate on the independent ticket, immediately after his arrival in the city for the beginning of a three-day campaign tour through Ohio.

The nature of the process he expected to face was not indicated, except that he named former Attorney General Daugherty, the Republican national committee, and declared that "both Mrs. Wheeler and I are wondering what the Ohio gang expects to start while we are here."

Senator Wheeler acted as prosecutor for the committee which investigated Daugherty prior to his resignation from the department of justice. He did not, however, specify what he expected to encounter, except in so far as he declared he had information that persons and agencies had been working to obtain "repudiations of sworn evidence," put before the investigating committee.

"We have been informed that agents working in conjunction with Burns, Daugherty and the Republican organization intend to have a blackmailing suit started against me when I reach Columbus, a suit for damages which every lawyer in Montana and the northwest refused to handle when an attempt was made to blackmail me two years ago during my campaign for the senate," the statement declared.

"I refused then to be held up and I shall refuse now. I serve notice on this corrupt gang that it will take more than injunctions, blackmail and framed-up indictments to stop me from attempting to drive from public office the crooked Republican officials who are undermining the faith of the people in their government."

There were no signs of process servers awaiting the senator's arrival, nor was he approached during the first hours of his stay in Ohio. He was taken to a luncheon by supporters of the third ticket immediately after his arrival, and was presented with a schedule which called for his appearance at a dinner early in the evening, and for an address before a mass meeting tonight.

Oregon Sailor Drifts 7 Days, Dines on Fish

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Sept. 17. William Goodman, fisherman, was caught outside the Umpqua bar and could not get inside with his three tons of fish. The northwest trade winds started his craft, short of fuel, down the coast, and when the wind shifted, he found himself at a point off Trinidad, Cal., 300 miles from home.

Before the trade winds gave Goodman a respite he had been drifting seven days and in that time had nothing to eat. He returned to the Umpqua river, after obtaining food at a California port.

School Conversion To Be Reconsidered

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—A conference will be held next Tuesday between the board of education and a committee of parents to reconsider plans for converting the University Elementary School, Shattuck avenue and Rose street, into a junior high school.

Petitions bearing 114 signatures asking the board to retain the elementary school in its present location, were presented to the board yesterday by a committee of the University Elementary Parent-Parent-Teachers' Association composed of Mrs. Robert Hector, Mrs. J. W. Sinclair, Mrs. Grace Hahn, Mrs. Hudson Kinney, Professor C. A. Wiskocil and J. B. Carleton.

The parents urge that a junior high school be established in another location, or that additional grades be provided at the present University elementary school.

Berkeley Realty Men Endorse School Bonds

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—The Berkeley realty board gave endorsement last night to the proposed school bond issue for $2,800,000 following a plea from Superintendent H. B. Wilson that the education facilities of the city be afforded adequate expansion. Members of the board pledged their services to the school authorities in the acquisition of land for new buildings should the bonds be carried, this service to be donted by the realty men.

The realty board also voted last night to take salesmen in as affiliated members and about 150 names are expected to be added to the membership roll as a result.

U. C. Student Fined For Parking in Street

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—An excuse that he arrived home at an early hour in the morning and didn't want to disturb the family by parking his car in its accustomed place failed to save $2 for Gerard Franklin, 28, a student of 2447 Carlton street, when he appeared before Judge Robert Edgar. Franklin was arrested for parking his car in the street all night. Franklin was the only one of a half dozen persons arrested for a like offense who appeared in court. Judge Edgar collected $2 from him and forfeited similar bail deposited by the others.

High School Repair Bids Are Rejected

ALAMEDA, Sept. 17.—Bids for alterations and repairs to the present high school building were rejected by the board of education last night because of insufficiency of competition. Only the bid of Schuler & McDonald was received. The bids for the plastering and lathing in the unit bids for the new high school were rejected also, because of their variance.

Other bids are being considered, and the awards will be made two weeks hence.

Rodeo Profit Will Aid Ill Veterans

ALAMEDA REDUCES TAX RATE WHEN VALUATION GROWS

ALAMEDA, Sept. 17. — Having established the cost of operating the city government at $477,568 for the ensuing year, the city council declared the tax rate $1.98 per $100, a decrease of two cents over last year. This figure is predicated on an assessed valuation of $24,125,000, which is an increase of $1,125,000 over last year's figure.

In addition to the established departmental budget figures, the city must pay $77,172.92, or 32 cents on the tax rate, for interest and redemption of municipal bonds. This includes $250,000 school bonds recently voted. Another item is the payment of $25,226, or 10½ cents on the tax rate, to the East Bay Water company for a public use charge, and also the payment of $8000 interest on the investment necessitated by the new water mains.

For the compensation insurance fund $7500 is set aside, $2500 of which must come from the municipal electric light funds. The city is now handling its compensation insurance fund by sinking its own reserve. The sum of $12,911 is placed in the police and fire department pension funds.

POLICE FORCE INCREASED.

The budget increases the membership of the police department from 20 to 31, or one police officer for each 1000 people. Provision is made for an additional automobile for the police force, and two more members of the fire department.

As an evidence of the increased building in the city, the budget plans for the appointment of an assistant building inspector. Also moneys are set aside to build wing walls at Washington park to preserve the beach.

The combined city and county tax rate this year for property owners will be $1.61 on the $100, a decrease of nine cents. Previous city tax rates for the past five years are: 1920-21, $2.24; 1921-22, $1.84; 1922-23 $2; 1923-24, $2.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 17.—Bonds of $25,000, voted recently by citizens of the Martinez school district for purchase of the Brown tract of 14 acres as a school site, have been approved by the board of supervisors. The bonds will probably be sold on October 6.

Alhambra School Bid Is Rejected

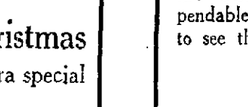
Watch Your Eyes



The beauty of the face is largely dependent on the eyes. Keep them sparkling and alive. Do not let them grow dull and unattractive through the lack of proper care. More of your personality is expressed through your eyes than in any other way.

Never overstrain or abuse them. Have them examined for defects in sight. Have them tested at once in our most modern optical department. If you are wearing glasses perhaps it is time for a change to increase your vision. If you are not wearing glasses perhaps you should be.

Here you will be honestly told whether or not you need glassses, and if an oculist is needed one will be recommended.

The number of automobile accidents attributed to poor vision makes it imperative for you to have your eyes examined if you drive a car.

HOLLAND TO BAN ERRORS IN IDEAS

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 17.—Antiquated ideas about Holland that prevail abroad and often move the present generation of Dutch people to mild resentment, have at last been tracked to their origin.

A learned society which has made a thorough investigation into the current geographical text books and manuals used in elementary and secondary schools in all civilized countries of the world has published a report which discloses that most of them are about 100 years behind the times.

Horse-drawn canal barges, for instance, are still given as the popular mode of locomotion in Holland, and while references to cows and windmills are plentiful, the books are silent on the development of modern Dutch dairy farming and other industries of the country. In one instance a text book drew a picture of Dutch conditions as they existed 300 years ago.

The society in question has appointed a committee to remedy this state of things by vigorous efforts abroad to bring knowledge about present-day Holland somewhat more up to date.

Elephant Tracks Found in Nevada

RENO, Nev., Sept. 17.—Ancient tracks of an elephant (mylodon harlani) 'shambling off to his grave, where he sank to rise no more," which are embedded in the natural floor of the Nevada state penitentiary at Carson City were today described as "one of the wonders of the world," by Dr. John C. Merriam, eminent paleontologist and president of the Carnegie Institute at Washington, D. C.

Dr. Merriam was the guest of Governor J. G. Scrugham and Dr. J. Claude Jones of the University of Nevada. After inspecting the prints at the prison, Dr. Merriam urged that precautions be taken to preserve them and that further excavating be done.

238 Bootleg Shops Named to Councilmen

SEATTLE, Sept. 17.—Failure of courts to impose adequate penalties on bootleggers and other law violators were the causes for lax law enforcement in Seattle, Chief of Police Severyns told a city council inquiry here today when investigations sessions opened. Chairman Ralph D. Nichols produced a typewritten list of 238 alleged bootlegging establishments and fifty alleged disorderly houses in the city. Chief Severyns admitted that raids were not made "very often," and contended that the "penalties were not severe enough."

Russian Waiters Scorn Tips Until Americans Come

MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—Finding it impossible to do away with the institution of waiting on table altogether, Soviet Russia instead has tried to do away with "tipping" and has discarded the waiters' apron, laundered shirt and white collar. Most waiters in Russian restaurants now wear a natty blouse of navy blue, with a navy style collar and no tie.

Although waiters in Russia receive a most slender salary, it is a punishable offense for them to accept gratuities of any kind. 'Don't degrade your fellow man by offering him a tip, a tip is a bribe." This is the surprising warning American visitors to Russia who in other European countries have been literally plagued by tip-seekers find on the walls of Russian restaurants.

In spite of this injunction, however, waiters are forced out of sheer economic need not only to accept gratuities, but to seek them. It would be impossible for them to exist on the small salaries they receive.

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 100,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 100,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

It's reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98

U. C. STUDENTS TO BLAST STOPE IN MINIATURE MINE

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—Remembrances of the disastrous fire of a year ago which swept the North Berkeley residential section filled the minds of many who heard the dull rumbling reports of dynamiting near Founders Rock yesterday. Investigation revealed that the mining students of the University of California were at work again.

Desirous of adding a "stope" or room carved from solid rock to the miniature mine which is drifted into the hillside back of the mining building, 100 students worked all day Sunday drilling and loading preparing for Monday's shot. The new chamber is approximately 12 feet square and is at the end of the 180-foot shaft. Approximately thirty sticks of double-strength dynamite were used to shatter the granite wall.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded great relief. I continued the treatment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss E. Rutherford, R. F. D. 1, Box 5, Gallipolis, Ohio.

Venetian Night to Feature Dons' Lake Merritt Fiesta

A serpentine battle on Lake Merritt is the event scheduled as the grand finale of the Venetian Night Revels, the opening feature of the Fiesta Peralta, September 25.

The Oakland recreation department has entered into the plans for the Venetian Night Revels and Jay B. Nash, chief of the department, has placed Miss Uella Engs, one of the executives of the department, at the disposal of the committee in charge.

The recreation department is offering a canoe or rowboat free of charge to anyone who will participate in the Venetian Night Revels. All one is required is to decorate the craft.

The large whaleboats the department will turn over to any group, club or organization, for the night's revels. With a crew of fourteen to row the craft in the pageant, High school boys, boy scouts, and others have volunteered for this service.

A large number of entries in the Venetian Night Revels have been received. These include the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, the Oakland Women's Rowing Crew, the Rotary Club, the Mutual Business club, the Oakland Advertising club, and others.

Fifteen hundred lanterns will be strung around the lake.

Giant searchlights from the top of the Municipal Auditorium will cast their beams across the water, centering on the serpentine battle, close to the southwestern edge of the lake.

Prizes will be distributed as follows: for the best decorated canoe, $50; second prize, $25; third prize, $10; for the best decorated rowboat, $50; second prize, $25; third prize, $10; for the best club boats, first prize $75 loving cup, second prize $50 loving cup, and third prize, $25 loving cup.

ONE KILLED, TWO INJURED IN BAY AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two Drivers Arrested After Crashes; Woman About to Board Car Is Hit.

A woman was killed and two persons were injured in automobile accidents about the bay in the last 24 hours.

Mrs. Silas Claudius, 59, of 1532 Fiftieth avenue, is dead as a result of having been struck by a delivery auto driven by Carl Schafer, 2029 Fourteenth avenue. Mrs. Claudius was about to board a street car at Seventy-third avenue and East Fourteenth street when the accident occurred.

Schafer was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. The police said they found liquor in his car.

A man and a woman were injured, two autos were wrecked and a second man was arrested as an alleged hit-and-run diver following an accident at Franklin and Market streets, San Francisco, today. Those hurt were:

William Swan, 3742 Twentieth street, lacerated forehead, cut right ear.

Swan was driving with Miss Plumbridge when his machine collided with a car alleged to have been driven by William R. Rice, chauffeur, 525 Hollywood avenue. In the excitement of the crash Miss Plumbridge fainted and Swan, although injured, was endeavoring to revive her, when other motorists stopped to aid the pair. One of them reported that the driver of the second machine had hailed a taxi and disappeared. The police claim to have identified the man as Rice, and at daybreak he was taken into custody at his home. He was booked at the Ingleside station on a charge of running away from the scene of an accident without rendering aid.

ALAMEDA SELLS BELT LINE ROAD; PRICE IS $30,000

Joint Executive Board of Two Railways and City to Manage Property.

ALAMEDA, Sept. 17.—Resolutions were passed by the city council last night providing for the sale of the belt-line railroad to the Santa Fe and the Western Pacific railroad companies for $30,000.

The railroad is to be known as the Alameda Belt Line railroad and is to be governed by an executive board of five, two to be selected by the Santa Fe, two by the Western Pacific and one to be named by the city. The city reserves the right to recapture the property, but must give one year's notice of intention. The railroads will share equally in expense and profit. Other railroads may be allowed to take part by purchasing stock and contributing pro rata to the expense.

Major Charles L. Tilden opposed the sale on the ground the property was more valuable than indicated in the sale price. He contended that the railroad would be worth more money as soon as the ferry slip at the foot of Grand street is completed.

MODESTO RAISES IRRIGATION TAX TO OFFSET S. F.

Places Rate at $6.40 With Hope of Protecting Water Right With Canal.

MODESTO, Sept. 17. — The Modesto Irrigation district fixed the tax rate for the fiscal year at $6 40 last night.

This is an increase of 20 cents over the tax rate for last year but is the same rate as the one two years ago.

The rate was fixed by a three to two vote with Directors J. R. Broughton, N. L. Rose and J. C. Lambert, chairman, voting for it, and J. C. Garrison and H. H. Sturgill against it.

Garrison and Lambert maintained that the district could rely upon the revenue from the power plant to support the district. Charles Abbott, secretary, explained that if the money from the power plant is used for that purpose it will not be available for improvements thought necessary.

H. A. Storrs, district engineer, spoke favoring the expenditure of $12,000 in enlarging the Modesto district's main canal. He said the money spent in that way would demonstrate that the district is using diligence in obtaining and using waters from the Tuolumne for irrigation purposes. He said he believed such an act would be of great value to the district in case of a suit over right to the water. Such a suit on the part of San Francisco is being anticipated.

It was the opinion of the majority of the board that with the tax rate at $6.40 it would be possible to enlarge the canal as Storrs desires.

Santa Rosa Boxer Injured in Crash

SANTA ROSA, Sept. 17.—Jimmie and Bobbie Reed, two local boxers, were injured when their automobile was crowded off an embankment near Ukiah.

Jimmie Reed was treated at a Ukiah hospital for a gaping wound in the shoulder which required fourteen stitches to close, while his brother was badly cut about the face. Both will recover.

FRESNO TO SHOW COTTON OUTPUT OF SAN JOAQUIN

New Valley Crop to Be Exhibited at Fair on Sept. 29.

FRESNO, Sept. 17.—Because of the widespread interest in cotton as a profitable crop, and the increased acreage planted this year, a comprehensive cotton exhibit will be featured at the Fresno district fair which will open here Monday, September 29, for one week.

Peter Rasmussen, exhibit director for the Fresno Chamber of Commerce, is now gathering material for the exhibit and will install it.

The display will cover every phase of cotton culture and will show the processes of production. It will be educational in that it will also show best methods of culture and samples of cotton produced in the valley.

This exhibit will be only one of many exhibits which should prove interesting and instructive to farmers of the San Joaquin Valley.

There will be ample amusement as well, including horse races, polo, motorcycle races and music. The 31st California Raisin Festival will occur Thursday, October 2, with a gigantic morning parade and the 150 mile speedway classic on the Fresno speedway in the afternoon.

Later Date Set for Radio Conference

The radio conference scheduled to be held in Washington on September 30 has been postponed until October 6, according to an announcement from the office of Col. J. F. Dillon, radio supervisor for this district, who was notified yesterday of the change by the commissioner of navigation.

No change has been given for the change in dates, although it is believed it was made in order that more time could be given those who could not attend earlier.

The conference will be watched by thousands, as much depends upon it. Practically every phase of the radio situation will be gone into at the conference with the idea of aiding the progress of radio. Leading broadcasters of the country, represented by 48 class "B" stations will discuss wave length and the curtailment of power, in order that the least interference may be attained.

Going Away

MME. DOROTHY RAEGAN TALBOT, coloratura soprano, who is going to Chicago to fill a six weeks' engagement.

RADIO SOLOIST LEAVES FOR EAST

Mme. Dorothy Raegen Talbot, coloratura soprano of Berkeley, who has sung in concert throughout America and Europe, will leave Saturday for a six weeks' engagement in Chicago, it was announced today. She is booked to sing at the Chicago theater, the Riviera and the Tivoli. She will return home on November 1.

Mme. Talbot is probably the best known singer in the west, because of her radio concerts. She has appeared many times before the microphones at KLX, The TRIBUNE'S station, and she has one of the largest followings of any radio artist. Her name is familiar to millions. On a recent concert tour she sang from nearly all of the principal broadcasting stations in the east.

BANKERS TO VIE WITH ORCHESTRA IN KLX PROGRAM

Musical Concert Over Tribune's Radio to Be Varied With Two Addresses.

A select and varied program of instrumental and vocal music will be broadcast this evening from Radio KLX, The TRIBUNE'S station, on the twentieth floor of the TRIBUNE tower.

The first part of the program has been arranged by the Commercial Trust & Savings Bank of Oakland, under the direction of E. B. Smith. The talent provided for this program is drawn from the employees of the banking institution.

The second part of the program will include a group of vocal numbers and the remainder will be furnished by Horace Heidet's poular Claremont Hotel orchestra. During the first part of the program the American Theater orchestra, under the direction of Owen Sweeten, will play the usual overture, broadcast directly from the theater pit over leased wires. At 10:10 o'clock Clement Barker, poular American Theater organist will broadcast a short organ recital.

MUSICAL BANKERS.

Those participating in the first part of the program presented by the Commercial Trust & Savings Bank will include the Tommy Tomlinson Trio, composed of J. Brothers, violin; Tommy Tomlinson, piano, and L. S. Sutherland, saxophone

Others participating will be Miss Vine Lowry, pianist; Robert Robertson, Scotch comedian, known throughout the Eastbay as "Bobby Robertson"; the Metropolitan Four, composed of Thelma Werli, soprano; Sylvania Haampa, contralto; Harold Spaulding, tenor, and Philip Pedgrift, baritone, accompanied by Miss Vira Parker.

In the Metropolitan Four radio fans will find a friend of long standing. Miss Thelma Werli sang on various occasions from KLX, when KLX was first on the air. Since appearing in concert work she has studied extensively with the best teachers and is coming back a finished singer. The Metropolitan Four has appeared before various local clubs and is already well known in the Eastbay district.

Also on this program will be two speakers, the first being Joseph J. Rosborough, former Oakland postmaster, and now vice-president of the Commercial Trust & Savings Bank. Rosborough will speak on Boy Scout work, he being a veteran Scout and Scout work being his particular hobby. The other speaker will be Mrs. George A. Rigg, treasurer of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, who is in the women's department at the local bank.

The second part of the program will include vocal solos by Mrs. E. Lindquist, with Mrs. Paul Anderson as accompanist, and a talk on interior decorating by Bernard C. Jakway, expert interior decorator, who is giving a series of talks at KLX through the courtesy of the John Breuner Company of Oakland. Jakway is considered to be the leading authority on interior decorating and his talks are proving to be of great interest to housewives who have interior decorating problems to solve. He will talk tonight on the arrangement of the furniture in the living room and give other helpful hints.

Following this Horace Heidt's Claremont Hotel orchestra, a regular feature at the Claremont Hotel and one of the most popular orchestras that ever broadcast from KLX, or any other station in the bay district, will entertain with a well-balanced program.

An added feature to tonight's program from the American Theater will be the work of Antonio de Garassi, well-known violinist, who has been recently added to the American Theater orchestra. He will render violin solos.

Deer Hunter Is Fined $25 for Crossing Ranch

SAN JUAN BAUTISTA, Sept. 17.—Claude Clarke, orchardist of the Union District, charged with trespassing on the Bardin Gabilan ranch off the Salinas grade, while on a deer hunt, today changed his mind about demanding a jury trial, and pleaded guilty. He was fined $20.

Clark asserts he did no damage, but said he found it cheaper not to fight the case.

He admitted crossing the property after an employee of the ranch had warned him. The case attracted a lot of attention in San Benito county because the trespass law virtually cuts off all open deer hunting lands.

Soft, medium or hard-boiled— how do you like your eggs?

You'd never think of ordering boiled eggs without specifying "soft," "medium" or "hard-boiled." Yet the actual egg-taste is the same. But you have your taste—your personal preference—in boiled eggs; and you see that the eggs are served your way.

Same with M·J·B Coffee. Drink it strong, in-between, or mild, the characteristic flavor of M·J·B is always the same. But the exact degree of flavor, the exact strength-per-cup, is up to you.

Here's where the famous M·J·B taste-finding chart will help you. You can get one at your grocer's—free! Or, if not, direct from M. J. Brandenstein & Co., San Francisco.

M·J·B

Coffee

A coffee roaster is not a clairvoyant. He can't "see" into the individual coffee-tastes of a city-full of people. But he can see that his coffee has a full-fledged flavor that always shows up in the cup, no matter how you make it or how you like to drink it. At least, M·J·B can and does!

Because it is a top-crop coffee of constant flavor, M·J·B stands ready to meet your taste in coffee. More than that, M·J·B stands ready to prove its economy in the cup. Extra-rich in body and strength—goes farther, costs less.

And don't forget TREE TEA
Orange Pekoe [Black] or Japan [Green]
meets every taste in tea

15,000 KILLED BY AUTOS ANNUALLY; RATE IS GOING UP

Experts Forecast Appalling Increase in Fatalities, Most of Which Are Avoidable.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 17.—A measure to effect a national reduction in public accident fatalities by the cooperative effort of all national associations whose interests touch upon the street and highway traffic problem, will be proposed at the safety congress to be held here September 29-October 3, the National Safety Council announces.

Among the associations to participate are the United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Automobile Association, the United States Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the American Railway Association, the International Chief of Police Association, the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, the American Electric Railway Association and the American Mutual Alliance.

"Fifteen thousand lives are lost in automobile accidents each year and fully 75 per cent of these accidents are avoidable," said the announcement. "Since 1910 the death toll has been increasing at the rate of 1000 each year and, with the increasing registration of automobiles resulting in street and highway traffic problems which cannot easily be solved, it is probable that the annual death rate may be in the neighborhood of 30,000 in 1930.

"The collection of public accident statistics and their analysis is probably the most important phase of accident prevention work at the present time. Colonel James Sinke, director of public safety of Grand Rapids, Mich., will explain the system under the universal accident report forms adopted by the National Safety Council. Mark Graves, New York state tax commissioner, will outline the organization and operation of the New York motor vehicle bureau, which keeps an accident record for every motor vehicle driver in the state. Many well-known leaders of the safety movement will speak."

M.E. Western Pastors Named at Sessions

LEAGUE MAY ASK U. S. AID IN PARLEY TO LIMIT ARMS

Twelve Nations Tentatively Approve Move to Make War "Outlaw."

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

GENEVA, Sept 17.—The subcommission on disarmament of the League of Nations assembly today adopted a resolution requesting the assembly to consider the advisability of inviting the United States government to send a representative to collaborate with the league's permanent disarmament commission in framing a draft convention for control of manufacture of arms This would serve as the basis later for an international conference

The representatives of 12 governments, sitting privately in subcommission, have given preliminary approval to the several articles concerning sanctions in the draft protocol which Premier Benes of Czecho-Slovakia, submitted after long and difficult negotiations as a pact which advances the cause of arbitration, produces a sense of security among nations and prepares the way for disarmament.

WOULD OUTLAW WAR.

Among the articles dealing with sanctions, which were thoroughly discussed, was Article 7 of the protocol, providing for general contributions from all states. In order that the country which the arbitral tribunals have declared an aggressor may be outlawed. This article obligates the signatories to assist the attacked state and insure the safety of land and sea communication

The essentials of Dr. Benes' project ruling out war, which were discussed throughout the entire day, include the submission of all juridicial disputes to the world court of justice, the compulsory arbitration of which would be recognized by all the signatories. All other disputes, namely, those political in character, would go to the council of the league of nations, which for the time being would sit as a court of arbitration and reach its decisions by a majority, not a unanimity vote.

When a conflict is brought before either court or council, the protocol provides for the despatch of international supervisory commissions to see to it that none of the parties to the dispute shall begin mobilization, and these commissions shall reach their destination within the maximum time limit of eight days Having decided that a state which refuses arbitration shall be branded as an aggressor and outlawed, the protocol provides for the immediate putting into force of sanctions

AID PLEDGED ASSAILED.

All the signatories agree individually and collectively to assist the attacked state and give mutual support through furnishing raw materials, foodstuffs, credits and transports and insure the safety of communications both by land and sea for the threatened state.

An important article authorizes the council to set up permanent commissions to draw up plans for blockading an aggressor and for economic and financial cooperation.

Waterfront Body Favors Amendment

Endorsing the proposed charter amendment giving the city council power to lease municipally owned land lying 400 feet back of the Bulkhead line, the Western Waterfront Industries association will consider at its meeting next Tuesday a campaign in support of the issue.

Dr. Nicholas J Clecak criticised delay by the city administration in developing the waterfront declaring it was used as a subject for pre-election promises that were not kept.

The organization was addressed on the subject of rodents by J. V. Cloos of the Ratin Laboratories He said government statistics showed rats to be responsible for an annual fire loss of $15,000,000 by gnawing electric wire insulation, that they would gnaw through lead pipe, destroyed woodwork and foundations; attack young children, carry disease germs and cause a general property loss which amounted to $200,000,000 annually in the United States.

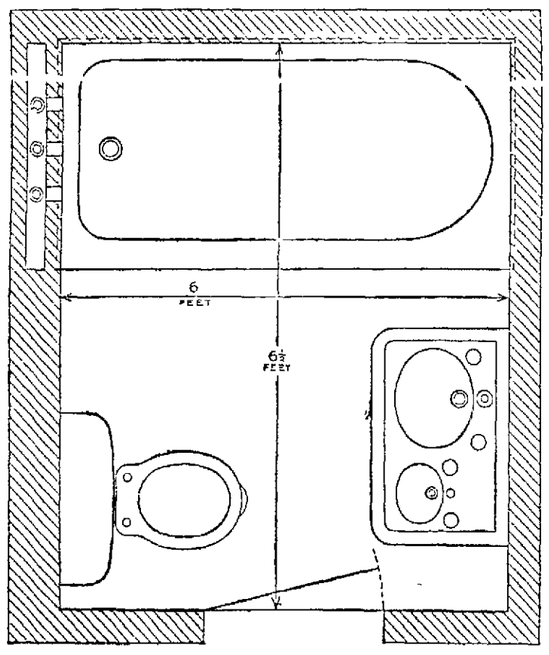
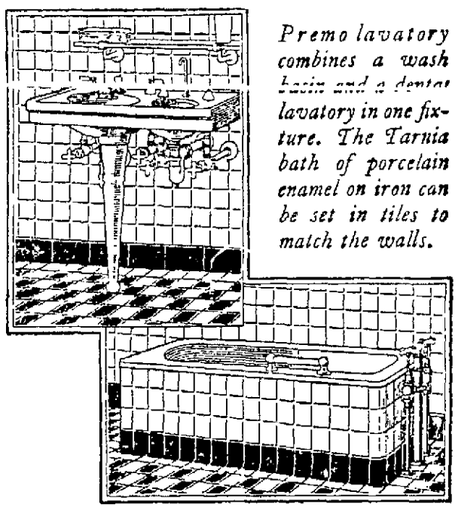
Trade an old clothes closet for a new bathroom





Premo lavatory combines a wash basin and a dental lavatory in one fixture. The Tarnia bath of porcelain enamel on iron can be set in tiles to match the walls.

Here is a practical bathroom plan which groups four Crane fixtures in a space only six by six and one-half feet. There is room in your home for this extra necessity. Look over your spare closet space. See where this bathroom can be fitted up.

An extra bathroom will add more to home than anything else the same money will buy

There are thousands of fine old homes which need only another bathroom, equipped with modern fixtures, to make them as comfortable and convenient as new houses would be.

Built when space was less costly, nearly all of these older homes—and many new ones—have odd corners, large closets or tiny spare rooms which can be turned into inviting extra bathrooms at small expense. A dark, inside room can be used as well as day-lighted space.

Your plumbing contractor can aid you in finding this unused space. He will suggest the right fixtures to meet your needs, and will show you how to arrange them to the best advantage in the room at your command.

Where room is limited, there are Crane fixtures designed to economize space without sacrificing comfort. For example, the Premo lavatory, which is illustrated above, combines a standard wash basin with a dental lavatory, yet it measures only 20 by 30 inches over all.

The new Tarnia bath of cream-white enamel on iron is supplied in three sizes, 5, 5½ and 6 feet in length. By installing only a Crane shower and lavatory, even a clothes closet can be transformed into a convenient extra bathroom.

Visit the Crane Exhibit Rooms and let us show you our wide variety of plumbing and heating fixtures, in sizes to fit almost any space at prices that bring them within reach of all.

EVOLUTION BAN REPUDIATED AT CHURCH SESSION

Methodist Episcopal Conference Says Does Not Favor Censorship.

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 17.—Resolutions condemning "ecclesiastical censorship of teaching," adopted by the Northern California Methodist Episcopal church conference here yesterday, are being forwarded to the State Board of Education.

In the resolution the conference repudiates efforts to have instruction in the theory of evolution banned from the schools. It adds that care should be exercised by school boards so that no "assault will be made upon religion."

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, There is pending before the State Board of Education, a petition, stating that all text books on natural sciences, which present their subject matter from the point of view of evolution, should be excluded from the courses of study of the secondary schools of California; and,

"Whereas, This petition is offered in the name of Protestant Christianity; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the California annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church is not a party to this petition;

"That without either affirming or denying the truth of the doctrine, we heartily repudiate the proposal to establish an ecclesiastical censorship of teaching in secular subjects.

"Believing the business of natural scientists is to observe, record and interpret physical phenomena as such, and that the field of natural science is thereby strictly limited to the world of physical forces, we denounce the practice of some teachers of science who, ignoring the essential limitations of their subjects, assumed the right to present to immature students materialistic and atheistic interpretations of religion with scientific subjects.

"We call upon boards of education in California to exercise such care in the selection of teachers of natural sciences as to assure the citizenship that no assault will be made upon religion in the name of science.

"Resolved, further, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the State Board of Education and that it be given to the press."

Is This to Be a Gland Age?

IN a recent press dispatch, a London physician stated that the Golden Age of man bids fair to be the glandular age, when salvation will be taken in tablet form. He said further that the average man believes that his thoughts, actions and feelings are controlled by his mind. But it is possible to show that mind is itself under the despotic sway of the ductless glands, which generate in the system the chemical fluids on which depend health, happiness and morality.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen, for men and women, is obtainable at Federal Drug Co., Federal Building, and 14th and Harrison.—Advertisement.

It Seems Like a Miracle to See How Lyko, the Great General Tonic, Puts New Vigor into Weak and Sickly People

From every part of the country reports have come of the amazing benefits brought to run-down men and women by this famous tonic.

Many of these people had suffered for years from conditions which made them practically invalids, incapable of doing a real day's work, others had faulty digestion, constipation, lack of appetite, nervousness, or other ailments which made them feel and look tired, sickly, "down and out."

Now these same people are in splendid health, active, cheerful, full of life and vigor through the bracing, tonic effect of Lyko.

Mitchell Murray, well known throughout Northern Missouri, says that he was so weak he could hardly walk across the room. Lyko put him in such condition that his friends and neighbors were surprised at the results.

W. L. Lawler, an Alabama man, writes that Lyko settled his digestion and liver troubles, making him feel at 55 like a man of 30.

Such reports as these seem almost like miracles and at once establish Lyko as one of the most beneficial remedies ever given to the human race.

Lyko is made from pure medicinal ingredients, one of which is a mild but effective laxative; another for the liver and kidneys; another an aid to digestion, and another one with a strengthening action on the nerves, helping to overcome sleeplessness and irritability.

If you don't "feel like yourself," see how quickly Lyko will bring back your old strength, ambition and ability to hold your own with active people.

Lyko is sold by all reliable druggists. Ask for it today.

MANY DIE, 40,000 HOMES FLOODED IN TOKYO TYPHOON

Six Villages Submerged; One Town With 300 Inhabitants Disappears.

TOKYO, Sept. 17.—Although the number of deaths has not yet been estimated, it is believed to be large, as a result of floods following in the wake of torrential rains which inundated many villages near Tokyo and also flooded sections of the capital.

Reports filtering in over wires broken by the violence of the storm indicate a heavy loss of life as well as huge property damage. In Tokyo alone 40,000 houses were flooded. The fate of 300 inhabitants of Kugemura is as yet unknown. The village was inundated and today is surrounded by a raging torrent. Efforts of rescue boats to reach the village were unavailing. Occasional cries for help from the village were heard.

Six villages on the other side of Tokyo were submerged by the flood waters.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 17. — Two were dead and a score injured today as the result of a severe rain and windstorm which swept South Georgia the past 24 hours.

The wind reached cyclonic proportions at Brownton, where one person was killed and several were injured. Houses were blown down, trees uprooted and crops in that section beaten to the ground.

At Nashville, Ga., trees and telephone poles were blown down. The town's light and telephone service was put out of commission.

R. M. Chism, a merchant, was killed when he came in contact with a live wire which had been torn loose by the wind. Other towns in South Georgia reported heavy property loss. Many of the towns in the storm area were cut off from communication, all wires being down.

AMERICAN LEGION PICKS OMAHA FOR 1925 CONVENTION

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

ST. PAUL, Sept. 17.—Omaha was selected as the 1925 national convention city of the American Legion at today's session of the sixth annual convention here.

Five minutes each was alloted to supporters of Omaha and Fort Worth to present their arguments to the convention, the Texans first taking the floor.

"My Old Mare" blared the bands and former national commander, Alvin Owsley urged the legionnaires to name Fort Worth and Miss May Peterson, grand opera singer, sang: "The Eyes of Texas Are On You."

Earl Cline of Nebraska presented Omaha's claim, waving aloft certified checks for $50,000 for use in entertaining the legion, as he gave hotel and other statistics to prove Omaha's ability to entertain the legion.

The convention also accepted the report of the time and place committee recommending acceptance of Philadelphia's invitation for the 1926 convention.

Jail sentences for those who fail to vote as an "encouragement" to bring the electorate to the polls were urged by former Judge Kenesaw M. Landis in an address to the convention here this afternoon. He was given an ovation.

Greetings were read from Lord Byng, governor general of Canada; Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy; General Diaz of Italy; Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman; Admiral Beatty, of England; General Pershing; Newton D. Baker, Major General Lejune, commandant U. S. marines; General Baron Jacques, Georges Clemenceau, war time premier of France; Admiral Coontz; General Haig, president of the British Legion; Secretary of War Weeks, Secretary of Navy Wilbur and the French war veterans of San Francisco.

Women are soon restored to health by its use and acquire the charm that health alone can give.—Advertisement.

Arithmetic and Rugs

This Advertisement Explains How I Can Sell a Million Dollars Worth of Rugs at Cost and Yet Earn $40,000 Profit

By Edw. J. Margett.

PEOPLE often hesitate to make a purchase in my stores, even after they are convinced the price is lower, because of a question in their minds. Not less than fifty times I have had people say to me: "Yes, the price appears to be lower, but where is the catch? How can you do it? How can you sell cheaper than the furniture stores and the department stores? How can you sell rugs and carpets at close-to-mill costs as you so often claim?" This advertisement is intended to answer these questions and to show that there is a definite and a sound reason why I can actually sell rugs at cost and still make a good living. It is a simple problem in arithmetic.

I CAN make $40,000 a year by selling rugs at actual cost—cost of the merchandise and the bare expense of selling it, without a penny of profit on the sale if I can sell a million dollars a year. I get it from my cash discounts. The discount for cash from all the mills is four per cent. Four per cent of a million is forty thousand dollars. If I can sell a million dollars a year in rugs and carpets I can make exactly forty thousand dollars a year, and not one penny of it comes from profit on the rugs I sell.

Coming up from Los Angeles the other night the rug buyer in one of California's biggest furniture stores told me his sales in the rug and carpet department were a quarter of a million dollars a month—three million a year. He was discontented because they only made a net profit of 15 per cent on that immense volume. I should have been contented without a penny of profit—merely the cost of the merchandise and the bare expenses of my store. My earnings would have come from the discounts on the goods I bought.

Let me make this statement—Margett's have never missed a discount since the business was started four years ago. The only profit I have ever made in my three stores was off these discounts. Four per cent of a million dollars is forty thousand dollars and that is enough for me. And a million dollars is certainly not a high figure to set for the sales of any one of my stores—San Francisco, Los Angeles or Oakland.

And that is the figure I am aiming at. Please do not misunderstand me. I have not sold a million dollars worth of rugs and carpets in a year yet. And I have not made $40,000 in a year, yet, either. I am trying to explain honestly and frankly my policy and my plan for making money in this business. I know that a million dollars a year can be done and I know that the discounts will make me a generous profit.

As a matter of cold fact I have had to dip into the money earned in discounts every month I have been in business to pay the running expenses of my stores. New stores have not been opened out of profits. They have been equipped and stocked out of the money made in discounts on the big volume of business I have been fortunate enough to do. I am selling rugs on a settled policy of getting bare cost of merchandise and expenses out of it. The price you pay represents not one penny of profit to me. It represents cost of goods and cost of selling them to you—no profit other than the cash discount.

OPEN DISSENSION IN OLD PARTIES IS BARELY AVERTED

Democrats Almost Trip Up on Klan; Richardson Keeps Harmony in G. O. P.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17.—Threatened dissension was averted in both Republican and Democratic conventions yesterday when the state administration forces let the organization of the Republican convention go by default and the Democrats solved the Ku Klux Klan problem by endorsing the Seagirt, N. J., speech of the Democratic standard bearer, in which John W. Davis urged tolerance.

With unanimity and celerity the Socialists and Prohibitionists adopted platforms and finished the work before them, except that the former left open the selection of presidential electors until such time as the courts shall decide whether La Follette-Wheeler delegates' names may be printed on the ballot at the November election.

The Democrats debated only one plank, that one having to do with a proposal to reapportion and redistrict the assembly, senatorial and congressional districts. By a close vote this issue was omitted from the platform and it was adopted without opposition, enabling the Democrats to complete their work and adjourn in late afternoon.

Republicans got past the danger of a clash between supporters of Governor Richardson and opponents of the state administration when State Senator H. C. Nelson was elected as convention chairman and Mrs. Cora M. Woodbridge of Placer as secretary, the administration not making an issue of the ballot.

Republicans Endorse Alien Act, Boulder Dam

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17.—The Republican convention unanimously adopted the platform draft submitted by the platform committee. The text follows:

The delegates of the Republican party, in state convention here assembled, hereby reaffirm their allegiance to those principles of Republicanism under which our nation has so splendidly prospered during the greater portion of the past seventy-five years. We recognize the fact that this is a year of national campaign on the part of Republicans for the re-election of the chief executive of our nation—a campaign to be waged upon issues laid down in the platform of the Republican party and adopted at its national convention on June 11, 1924. Accordingly, by specific reference, we incorporate this national platform of the Republican party as the basis for the state platform of the Republican party in California.

Tariff

As of special interest to our state and its manifold industries, we particularly reaffirm our belief in the protective tariff. We recognize it as a necessity in preserving for America a standard of life for our people which would be impossible in unrestricted competition with cheap labor prevailing in other lands. We recognize that this Republican policy has given to the agricultural and other industries of California a measure of protection which is proving absolutely indispensable. We therefore endorse most heartily the work of our Republican senators and representatives in congress whose arduous labors have thus safeguarded the interests of California, and we commend these and other Republican candidates within this state to the favorable notice of our voters at the approaching November election.

Respect For Law

We commend the plank of the national Republican platform demanding respect for law, holding with it that "violations of law weaken and threaten government itself," and that the Republican party pledges itself toward "the maintenance of these principles by the enforcement of the constitution and of all laws."

Collective Bargaining

We believe in the lawful rights of capital, and no less in the lawful rights of labor. We believe that capital may legitimately organize, and that labor may legitimately organize. Capital, when organized, may negotiate or contract through its authorized agents, and labor when organized may likewise negotiate and contract. We stand, therefore, for the right of organization of men engaged in toil and for the principle of collective bargaining.

Labor

We call especial attention to that portion of the national platform which deals with the subject of labor; which declares its faith in the principle of the eight hour day, which favors "a broader and better system of vocational education and a more adequate system of free employment agencies"; which pledges "a continuation of the work of rehabilitating workers in industry"; which favors "high standards for wages, working and living conditions among women employed in industry"; which commends congress for its prompt adoption of a constitutional amendment to prevent child labor; and we hereby pledge the Republican party of California to see to it that this child labor amendment is promptly adopted by this state.

Immigration

We heartily commend the enactment of the existing federal law excluding from admission to the United States aliens ineligible to citizenship.

Mining

The national platform of our party calls attention to the accomplishments of the administration in aid of mining and pledges the party to continue its efforts in that regard, and we emphasize the try to the state of California.

Progressive Legislation

We reaffirm our adherence to those educational, humanitarian, social welfare and progressive policies and institutions which have become and are universally recognized as a part of the established and accepted state government of California.

Direct Primary

In common with all citizens of our great republic we cherish an abiding faith in democratic government. In California, we have to the highest degree, made it possible for democracy to truly function and to accurately reflect the will of the people. The direct primary, the initiative, the referendum and the recall are the weapons of democracy. The Republican party stands unequivocally for these principles of government and pledges its legislative nominees to maintain, safeguard and protect them.

Development of Colorado River

We strongly endorse the United States reclamation service plan for the construction of the Boulder dam and urge the early enactment by congress of H. R. Bill 2903, 68th congress, first session, now pending before the congress of the United States, as best calculated to secure the development of the wonderful resources of the Colorado river in the interest and for the benefit of the people.

Agriculture

We recognize clearly that agriculture is the basic, fundamental industry of California and that on its prosperity depends the ultimate well being of the state. California's agriculture is largely dependent on its water resources; therefore we urge the utmost protection of our forests and watersheds. California's long distance from the consuming markets demands a greater efficiency in production and a lowering of costs of distribution all along the line, if we are to compete on a favorable basis with the markets of the world. We favor, therefore, the development of work designed to aid the farmer in the solving of these problems. We favor the most careful and painstaking attention to the transportation problem, and to the development of those functions regarding marketing, research, extension and regulation designed to promote, develop and protect our agricultural resources to the end that our rural population may be composed of prosperous, contented American citizens.

In view of the national scope of our agricultural problems, we favor the closest kind of cooperation on the part of our agricultural institutions with federal agencies engaged in similar lines of work, in order that we may obtain the maximum economy through increased efficiency.

National Candidates

Finally, we endorse the wise and careful administration of our Republican president, Calvin Coolidge, and call upon the electorate of California to show their confidence in, and appreciation of, this Republican administration, by according to Calvin Coolidge and to his running mate, Charles G. Dawes, an overwhelming majority for the exalted office of president and vice-president of these United States.

Both Parties Name President Electors

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17.—The 26 presidential electors nominated by the Republican and Democratic conventions, respectively, follow:

Republican—Mrs. John L. Eshleman, Berkeley; Louis M. Cole, Los Angeles; James N. Crenin, Marysville; Charles R. Clinch, Grass Valley; Jessie W. Lilienthal, San Francisco; John L. McNab, San Francisco; George C. Pardee, Oakland; Thomas McManus, Bakersfield; Henry N. Ayer, San Jose; Madison Owen, Pomona; George Peltier, Sacramento; Martin C. Neuner, Los Angeles; Dr. Louise Harvey Clark, Riverside. The two first mentioned are to be elected at large.

Gater, Santa Cruz; William Kettner, San Diego; E. S. Heller, San Francisco; May E. Foy, South Pasadena; William N. Conley, Madera; R. M. Fitzgerald, Oakland; Catherine Braddock, Stockton; C. L. Culbert, Jackson; Edna L. Knight, Willows.

PROHIBITIONISTS ASK NAVY TO WAR ON RUM ARMADA

Party in State Convention Also Urges Bible Be Put in Schools.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17.—The adoption of a platform urging more stringent enforcement of national prohibition laws and calling upon the President to use the navy to prevent the smuggling of liquor was the outstanding business transacted by the state convention of the Prohibition party which convened here.

The convention selected T. K. Beard of Modesto as permanent chairman. A ticket of thirteen electors was chosen. No change was made in the personnel of the state central committee, of which H. Clay Needham, Los Angeles, is chairman.

The convention endorsed the candidacy of H. P. Faris for President and Marie C. Brehm for Vice-President. A summary of the planks in the platform follows:

Pledging allegiance to the national party.

Pledging "unwavering loyalty" to the principle of prohibition of beverage liquor and urging more rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws.

Favoring an initiative to place the Bible in the public schools.

Appealing to the President to use the navy to prevent smuggling.

Favoring laws insuring "justice to the public" in disputes between capital and labor.

Favoring laws to make one day in seven "a day of rest."

Opposing any law permitting boxing.

Proposing more drastic laws for forest protection.

Declaring the interests of agriculture should be placed on an equality with manufacturing interests in government.

Favoring the cooperation of the state in the development of public utilities.

Recommending the strengthening of the state primary law to give minor parties a better opportunity on the ballot.

Commanding the activities of the League of Women Voters.

Mabel Normand Is Tired of Goat Role

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 17.—Mabel Normand is "tired being the goat," and was today planning action against some of those "people who've been talking about" her lately.

The film comedienne is particularly vexed with Mrs. Georgia W. Church, society matron, who in a recent divorce alleged that her husband, Norman W. Church, millionaire, was friendly with Miss Normand while the two were patients in a local hospital [illegible]

"I was all bundled up with a broken shoulder and Mr. Church was riding around in a wheelchair. There wasn't much chance for romance there," Miss Normand declared. "I never saw him more than once or twice, and always when a nurse was present. Some of these folks are going to have to prove this stuff they're saying about me."

$150 Tax to Visit Moscow Is Decreed

MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—Visitors to Moscow will here after be obliged to pay from $50 to $150 for the privilege. This measure, which was proposed by the Moscow Soviet, is designed to prevent further overcrowding of the Russian capital, which is exceeding all bounds. The money will go toward building homes for the working population.

It is not yet clear whether the new regulations will apply to Americans and other foreigners visiting Russia.

Man Who Predicted Warship Blast Dies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Mathew Fitzsimmons Tighe, noted newspaper correspondent, who predicted the destruction of the battleship Maine two days before it was blown up in Havana harbor, 25 years ago, died here today, aged 67. He suffered a stroke of apoplexy several months ago. He leaves a widow, a son and a daughter.

Democrat Platform Extols Wilson, Denounces Klan

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17.—The text of the Democratic platform follows:

The Democratic party of the state of California, in convention assembled at Sacramento, on September 16, 1924, reaffirms its faith and confidence in the fundamental principles of the party, as set forth in the national platform adopted at the national Democratic convention of 1924, and all the progressive theories and principles long advocated by the party which were put into operation and effect during the great Democratic administrations of 1913 to 1921.

In this connection, it is interesting to all serious minded Americans to note the glaring contrast in the administration of national affairs during the Democratic regimes, led by that most distinguished American statesman, our late beloved leader, Woodrow Wilson, whose lofty ideals and principles stirred and revitalized the political thought of the world, and the Republican administration which has been distinguished only by its inaction and reaction, and failure to accomplish anything of an affirmative or progressive character; while it has furnished the greatest scandal in national administration that the country has ever witnessed.

Cut Tariff

The Democratic administration among many other great reforms brought about tariff reductions, established a federal trade commission; a federal farm loan system, enacted a child labor law, an eight hour law, passed the Clayton amendment to the Sherman anti-trust act, freeing American labor and taking it from the category of commodities; passed a corrupt practices act, established federal employment bureaus, organized and put into operation the great federal reserve system. These are only a few of its achievements in the brief period for the great war. The Democratic administration during the great war, under the leadership of the immortal Woodrow Wilson will ever stand as a monument to the country's resources, wisely directed, during the great crisis of the nation.

No breath of scandal has been attached to this great Democratic administration and it is alarming to all good Americans to think that a political party, intrusted with the vast powers of our government, as the Republican party was, should be so disregardful of the public welfare as to appoint men of such calibre to cabinet positions that they were compelled by the force of public opinion to resign on account of their corruption or incompetency in office.

Extol Wilson

We rejoice in the fact that, in the present national campaign, we have a leader in the person of our candidate for president, the Hon. John W. Davis, who, by education, training and natural ability, exemplifies in the highest degree the ideals of the great American statesman.

Events have demonstrated the wisdom of the leaders of the Democratic party at the close of the great war, and especially the ideals of our great leader, Woodrow Wilson, in seeking judicial means for determining international disputes and putting an end to war; and we favor a continuation of the effort of the Democratic party to establish a policy of international cooperation and adjustments of international disputes which will minimize, if not remove, the possibility for wars, which jeopardize civilization and work so much distress to mankind, without involving ourselves.

We favor a broad policy of international cooperation and reciprocity that will promote international trade, realizing, as we do, that this nation cannot economically build a wall around its boundaries, excluding the products of all foreign nations, and expect those nations to buy our surplus products.

Child Labor Bill

We continue to favor all remedial legislation aimed to ameliorate the suffering and provide proper care and assistance for our soldiers and sailors and assist all those who took part in the great struggle for the war.

We pledge our support to the ratification of the proposed constitutional amendment, authorizing legislation by congress for the prevention of child labor. We deem it a humanitarian measure, demanded by civilization.

We endorse the splendid utterances of our candidate for president, John W. Davis, in his speech delivered at Seagirt, on religious tolerance and as against bigotry and race discrimination, and as against the existence, platform and practices of the Ku Klux Klan. We consider this as an inspiring and ringing American declaration.

We condemn the Republican platform which is silent on the exclusion of Japanese, which congress bravely established in spite of the opposition of the president, who still apparently cherishes the idea of defeating the exclusion law by a treaty. No Californian, sensible of this danger, can vote for Calvin Coolidge. The Democratic platform, which we endorse, approves the policy of Japanese exclusion.

State Irrigation

We believe in state aid in the irrigation of arid lands, the development of the waterways of the state and improvement in transportation facilities, in order that the farmer may obtain a proper return for his product. The farmer, the rancher, and the fruit grower in California, is entitled to just relief through national and state legislation that will protect him in the production and distribution of food products.

We deplore the growing tendencies of extravagance in the administration government and the unnecessary increase of offices, commissions and departments, creating great burdens of taxation.

We favor a policy supporting the schools, colleges and all humanitarian activities of the state in their highest efficiency; a comprehensive program of reforestation, conservation of all water, water power and watersheds and of the forest and other natural resources of the state; approval of and encouragement for the Boulder dam of the Colorado river, the development of all the power possible therefrom and the use of our portion of the water for the use of our people for domestic and irrigation purposes.

We, therefore, invoke the aid of all progressive men and women of our state to carry into effect the progressive policies of our party, the preservation of law and order, the establishment of greater harmony among our people, and the insuring of the insistent Democratic demand of equal rights to all, special privileges to none.

We invite the voters to remember these things and cast their vote for the restoration of American ideals in American life, for the purification of our government, for its return to the service of the whole people.

Volcanic Action On Bogosloff Denied

ABOARD U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER HAIDA, St. Paul Island, Sept. 17 (By wireless to the Associated Press.) — Reports of volcanic activity last year on Bogoslof Island, about 25 miles north of the western end of Unalaska in the Bering Sea, were recently proved groundless when the Haida visited the island and noticed that the action of the seas on the northern point washed away about yards of kelp beds. No kelp beds were washed away last year, tending to prove that the volcanic reports were erroneous.

A horde of sea lion on the island has increased considerably in one year. Twenty sea lions swam around the Haida. They growled, dived and reappeared a few moments later. Officers of the Haida also noted that there were millions of seabirds nesting on the island.

The Asian went ashore near here. Although the Asian was a freighter she is reported to have had on board four passengers, all of whom were saved.

Lloyd's registered the Asianas a 6500-ton steel steamer owned by F. Leyland Company, Ltd., and registered from Liverpool.

COOLIDGE STARTS WORK ON FIRST OF 3 SPEECHES

Politics Will Be Avoided in Address by Executive Before Religious Body.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—President Coolidge started work today on the first of three speeches he will deliver in the next ten days. He will speak next Sunday afternoon for the first time since he delivered an address in Baltimore early in the month, before the Holy Name society convention here.

Coolidge also has agreed to make some remarks before the delegates to the National Retail Druggists' convention, who will come to the White House a week from today. The following day he will go to Philadelphia to speak at exercises commemorating the 150th anniversary of the meeting of the First Continental Congress.

It was indicated at the White House that the President did not intend to make his next address a political one in view of the fact that it would be delivered on Sunday and before a religious gathering.

Dawes Plans Second Tour of Northwest

EVANSTON, Ills., Sept. 17.—Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice-presidential nominee, returned today from his visit to the American Legion convention in St. Paul to spend two days at his home here conferring with party campaign managers and preparing for a second invasion of the northwest with a speech Friday night at Sioux Falls, S. D.

The conferences planned with Chairman Butler and other committee managers have to do with tentative proposals for a two weeks' speaking trip by the vice-presidential nominee, beginning early in October, and extending into the Pacific northwest.

The trip as being planned will be the first stumping tour undertaken by Dawes and will include several rear platform speeches in the smaller towns. The itinerary has not been completed but it is understood that half a dozen or more states will be visited, including probably Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Montana, Washington and Oregon. Dawes' efforts will be concentrated probably in the last three states named.

Davis Reaches Iowa For Intensive Drive

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 17.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, arrived in Des Moines shortly after 9 o'clock this morning for a series of public appearances that will mark the beginning of his party's intensive campaign in this state.

Half a dozen platform talks were made by Davis last night on his way from Syracuse, Mo., near where he spoke Monday, to Kansas City. At each point where his special train stopped Davis told his outdoor audiences he was convinced the American people had determined they should have a change in the administration of the government.

Here's the Latest---Cod Liver Oil in Tasteless Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder For Skinny, Weak, Run-Down People — Full of Vitamines.

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of those flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. The Owl Drug Company or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only sixty cents for 60 tablets.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet, and beware of imitators."—Advertisement.

New Insurance Policy Against Appendicitis

Insurance Company Will Pay Operation

Due to the great prevalence of appendicitis, a London insurance company offers to insure people against the cost of the removal of the appendix. This takes away any anxiety regarding the expense of an appendicitis operation but, of course, does not remove the worry.

A Treacherous Disease.

Appendicitis attacks at any moment even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by stomach or bowel trouble. When there is an uneasy feeling in the abdomen, appendicitis can be guarded against in the same way in which one guards against the spread of throat infection—because appendicitis is an infection in the intestines spreading to the appendix. In case of sore throat, further trouble may often be prevented by using an antiseptic wash or gargle to fight the germs and a laxative to carry off the poisons from the body. Just so, one can fight the intestinal germs and guard against appendicitis—but instead of an antiseptic for the throat, an INTESTINAL antiseptic is needed.

Intestinal Antiseptic.

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a complete system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows:

It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It cleans out BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes foul matter which poisoned the system for months. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—matter you never thought was in your system. The ill right after a natural movement and notice how much MORE foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach or sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports from Physicians.

"I have found nothing in my 30 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. P. (Name withheld by request).

"Adlerika is the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. C. Eggers.

"Cannot describe awful IMPURITIES eliminated from my system (by Adlerika). Feel better than for 20 years." (Signed) J. E. Purcell.

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, because of its quick, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

SOMEWHERE on the Orpheum circuit and headed this way is one of the most interesting women on the stage.

Martha Hedman is her name and you may recall her as the nurse in 'The Boomerang," to Wallace Eddinger's dumbell boy and Arthur Byron's blase doctor—a delightful play and one that had an exceptional run in the cities and in the stocks

It seems to us that there was another appearance of Miss Hedman in these parts Somehow or other we seem to recall her as the leading woman for Charles Richman and Charles Cherry when they did a special summer season in San Francisco and presented some fine entertainment

Anyway, Miss Hedman is a Swedish actress who won her first honors on the stage as an interpreter of psychological drama

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Professor Baldwin, famous aeronaut, is at Idora Park doing his stunts

Until she arrived in America Miss Hedman had never acted in English In fact she was unable to speak a word of English until she went to London to visit her sister who was on the stage there It was on this occasion that she met Charles Frohman who was so charmed with her personality that he engaged her for Bernstein's The Attack regardless of the fact that he had never seen her act

In 'The Attack" supporting John Mason Miss Hedman toured America and then returned to England in the same piece She was born in Ostersund a little village in the north of Sweden At fourteen she went to Helsingfors Finland and studied for the stage One of her first teachers was Siri Von Essen the first wife of August Strindberg Miss Hedman is playing a sketch called 'You Cant Beat Them" now

'FLAPPER WALK' IS NEWEST DANCE

The "Ritz" and the "Flapper Walk' are two of the dances that are to be popular this winter, while the "Camel Walk" must now be forgotten and abandoned by those who wish to be considered really up-to-date dancers This was the news brought back to Oakland by William L Sweet, local dancing instructor, from the convention of western dancing teachers which has just closed in San Diego

WILLIAM L SWEET

'The up-to-the-minute dancers in the East and South are now doing the Flapper Walk," Sweet said The 'Camel Walk,' or 'College Walk' is now decidedly out of date The 'Flapper Walk' is far more graceful more refined and requires more skill to dance than does the 'Camel Walk"

Among other new dances which were demonstrated at the convention and taught to those in attendance were two new waltzes—the 'Maytime' and the 'Whisper Waltz Besides the two already mentioned the new fox-trots included the 'Raggedy Ann' Some new tangoes particularly well suited for ballroom dancing, were also demonstrated including the French, the European and the Tangolio" These, according to Sweet, will take the place this winter of the old Argentine and Spanish tangoes

Oakland is to be the scene of the next annual convention of dancing teachers to be held during the second week of September, 1925

Sweet said that the convention disclosed that dancing everywhere is improving

'Teachers from all parts of the country reported that dancing in the public ballrooms and hotels is better and cleaner than in the past five years and is a real credit to the age' he said

The first week in December is to be known as 'Better Dance Week," according to an agreement reached at the convention Exhibitions of the right and wrong ways of dancing will be given in ballrooms and hotels throughout the state every night during that week

TOMORROW WILL BE FOSTER DAY AT THE BALL PARK

GATE RECEIPTS WILL HELP SICK WIFE AND KIDDIES IN ARIZONA

Fans to Pay Well Deserved Tribute to Popular Pitcher Who Has Been Bucking Misfortune Both On and Off the Baseball Diamond.

By BOB SHAND.

Tomorrow afternoon at the Coast League grounds in Emeryville baseball fans will pay tribute to one of the finest fellows in the game—George Foster.

The gate receipts will be turned over to Foster and a neat purse contributed to by enthusiastic admirers of the pitcher will be added.

When the total check is handed to George he will not head for his favorite automobile agency and invest in an expensive car. He won't even pay off the mortgage on the old homestead, because he has no old homestead on which to pay.

The money will go towards paying doctor and hospital bills for Mrs. George and the three little Fosters. The wife and kiddies are sick, mighty sick, down in Arizona. George's monthly pay check is not enough to pay all expenses. He has been economical and has tried hard to make both ends meet. It's hard enough for a ball player to keep his family the year around on what he makes during the playing season, but when Old Lady Luck turns her back on the player and Miss Fortune goes to the bat it is a dark outlook.

To know George Foster is to like him. He's regular. If a fellow isn't "right" the boys on the ball club soon discover the fact. The best evidence that Foster is "right" is that every man on the club seeks his friendship.

George was a big league twirler—once. They went crazy over him in Boston when he practically won a world series for the Red Sox. He is not as young as he used to be and he is not going back to the majors. His job with the Oakland club was in jeopardy early this season. On top of all his other troubles he suffered from the bad breaks of the game, his teammates could not make runs for him when a hit might have won a game. Possibly because they were overanxious to see Foster win his game they made boots and errors behind him.

Never Complained in Spite of His Troubles.

Like other veterans who are losing George could see his job slipping away from him. He could also see the wife and three kiddies down there in Arizona fighting hard to get well and relieve him of some of his burden. And through it all he never complained.

Many a ball player in Foster's position would have played politics to keep some youngster from taking his place.

But Foster is not of that breed. Instead of being jealous of the "kids" he took them in hand and gave to them the benefit of years of major league experience. He coached them on and off the diamond, cheered them when they won and sympathized with them when they lost.

It was only lately that Foster's plight became known. George did not seek sympathy nor did he ask assistance. His fellow players who have learned to love and respect the big fellow heard about Mrs. Foster and the three little Fosters from another source. They asked Cal Ewing and Del Howard what could be done towards helping their pal. Cal and Del suggested the benefit game. The ball players bunched up a flock of greenbacks and tossed them into the hat.

Fans Will Do Their Part Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the fans will do their part. There is no law against purchasing a dozen or twenty admission tickets. Toss a thought down to the Arizona hot belt, make a mental picture of the mother gamely battling the dread white plague and trying to save her three little kiddies.

If you can't go to the game or find a player selling tickets don't let your conscience hurt you—checks are acceptable.

Favorites in French Lick Play Survive

Jock Hutchison, Mike Brady Among Stars Eliminated in First Round.

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Sept. 17.—Reduced to sixteen players, the second 36-hole matches of the national professional golf championship proceeded today over the course at French Lick with some of the favorites missing as the result of yesterday's play.

But the survivors included the defending champion, Gene Sarazen of New York, in the lower half and the British champion, Walter Hagen, another resident of the metropolis.

Interest in the play today was more intense as a result of the remarkable 38-hole contest which closed yesterday's golfing when Jim Barnes, formerly national champion, after trailing all day, finally overcame Mike Brady by scoring an unusual 3 on the third extra hole.

Barnes today played Eddie Towne of Philadelphia, who yesterday eliminated Jock Hutchison of Chicago, formerly British open champ, 4 and 3.

The present titleholder, Sarazen, who survived by defeating Fred McLeod of Washington, 5 and 4, had as his opponent today Larry Nabholtb of Lima, Ohio.

In the upper half of the golf Willie MacFarlane of New York, having defeated Dow George of Minneapolis, played John Farrell another New Yorker, who had considerable difficulty yesterday in disposing of Neil Christian of Yakima, Wash., 2 and 1.

The best golf of the day was played by Henry Ciuci of New York, in defeating Charles Hoffner, Philadelphia, 4 and 2. Ciuci shot 67 in the morning round, but nevertheless he was one down at the end of 18 holes for his opponent had chalked up a 66.

Callett will meet Al Espinosa of Chicago today, who was never headed by Art Ham of Detroit winning 4 and 3. Cruikshank has as his opponent Ray Derr of Philadelphia, who came from behind after being 2 down as late as the 27th hole and defeated Harry Hampton of Canton, Ohio, 2 up.

British Must Change Their Polo Tactics

American Methods Prove Successful in This Year's Matches.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Polo authorities today were united in expressing the opinion that the international cup would remain in this country indefinitely, following America's successful defense of the trophy culminating in its 14-to-5 defeat of the invading British in the second match of the series yesterday. Te belief was expressed that England would have to adopt American methods of play before it could hope to cope with the cyclonic riding and hitting tactics employed by the defenders. The British sustained the worst defeat in the history of the series by losing the opening match 16 to 5. They did better yesterday, but nevertheless left no doubt that they were a combination far inferior to the Americans.

Only Luis Lacey, their captain and back, seemed able to play the game according to American standards.

Kunz Twirls Fine Game For Oakland Club

Locals Nose Out Angels In Eighth Inning When Ted Cather, Adams Hit.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

Ivan Howard, manager of the Oaks, left the ball park with a big grin on his face yesterday afternoon. For the last couple of weeks Ivan had reason to worry about his pitching staff, as Earl (Pincers) Kunz was bothered with a sore arm during that time, but yesterday the former Pirate started on the hill against the Angels and he twirled his best game in a few weeks to aid the home team in scoring a 2 to 1 win. Kunz allowed the Angels seven scattered hits and Howard hopes now that he can continue to show his real form for the rest of the season. The victory yesterday meant a lot to the locals as the Vernon Tigers handed the Seals a hard jolt at Los Angeles, winning from them 8 to 6. So the Oaks are now only four and a half games from the top of the Coast League ladder and each day now seems to be making it more sure that the Oaks and Seals will tangle in the last series of the season with the pennant still at stake.

ADAMS CINCHES GAME.

Otis (Doc) Crandall pitched about as well as Kunz and even though both pitchers were stingy with base hits, the hitting was the hardest witnessed on the local lot for a long time. Out of the total of fifteen hits, five of them were triples and four doubles. Sensational catches by Wally Hood of the Angels and "Buz" Arlett of the Oaks cut off a couple of more doubles.

Ted Cather and Spencer Adams were the heroes with the willow for the Oaks. Cather got a pair of triples, while Adams hit only a double, but the hit by the little second sacker came in the eighth inning after Cather had tripled to right and it scored Ted with the winning run. Jimmy McAuley, Angel shortstop made a great one-handed pickup and a dandy throw to first to rob Guisto of a hit that would have scored Adams with another run. However, the run was not needed as the Angels could not do a thing against Kunz in their half although Twombly and Cruise were used as pinch hitters.

ANGELS GET JUMP.

The Angels put two of their triples into the fourth inning when they scored their lone run. Ray Grimes, making his debut here, laced a triple between Lafayette and Bratcher and he scored a moment later when Hood slid to Arlett. Spencer fanned and Krug doubled to center, but Flowers tossed out McAuley.

The Oaks came right back in their half and evened the count. Cather led off with a triple and held third when Adams grounded to Grimes. Read hit to McAuley and it looked like a chance for a double play, but the shortstop booted and Cather crossed the plate while the other runners were also safe. Kunz sacrificed, but it did no good as Lafayette popped out.

Kunz worked himself out of several pinches and looked his best in a long while.

Ted Cather made a fast and pretty play in the first when Durst bunted along the third base line and Ted scooped the ball while on the dead run and made a perfect throw to first.

In the seventh Crandall led off with a hit. Whaley hit to right, but Arlett made a run and a dive and slid along the grass to catch the ball before it hit earth. It was a great catch and checked a chance for a rally.

Wally Hood picked Cather's drive off his shoetops in the fifth inning when Arlett was on second as a result of having hit the left field walk for a double.

Wrestlers Are Training For Saturday Bout

Al Karasick and Cliff Lewis, who will meet in a two-hour wrestling match at the Armory Saturday night, are in strict training and will be in shape to go the limit. The conditions call for two falls out of three with the two-hour limit prevailing. Lewis is quite popular here, having met Karasick on two former occasions.

Johnny Maurus, former wrestling instructor of the Olympic club, will meet Earl Studley in the special event. They are competent grapplers and should furnish some tall and lofty tumbling.

Joe Manning and Bob Roberts have been signed to meet in the curtain-raiser.

Heavy Team to Start Season At McClymond

Coach Rodriguez' Athletes Will Open Season Against Piedmont Friday.

Things in the line of football look bright at McClymonds high school for the opening of the fall season Friday when they clash with Piedmont high at Piedmont.

Coach Rodriguez is overjoyed at the prospects and is confident that his team will furnish a strong obstacle in the path of the more firmly established Oakland schools.

In previous years at the Orange and Black school the interest in sports in general has been low. A mere handful of players was seen on the sidelines. Things are different this year, as the McClymonds' mentor was swamped with a horde of huskies.

The average weight of the line will be at least 170 pounds, while most of the backfield men tip the scales at nearly 180. Good use of this weight has been made in scrimmages during the week. Last Friday two teams lined up for a practice game and exhibited a good brand of football, although the offense was slightly ragged.

Bob Kleckner and Joe Pellignini will occupy the halfback berths Friday, while fullback and quarterback will be looked after by C. Carey and Joe Simmons respectively.

Kleckner and Carey are the veteran backs, while Pellignini made his letter at tackle and was shifted to the backfield because of his speed and line plunging ability.

Captain Les Hansen will play center against Piedmont. He is a husky youth and has had lots of experience.

Wilson and Terrigan are the most likely prospects for guard positions, while the tackles will be played by Meyers and Miller, the former a veteran from last year's team.

Paul Hubert and Buel are a sweet looking pair of ends and are expected to stand up among the best when the O. A. L. season starts. Buel played with Tamalpais Military Academy last season and is especially adept at catching forward passes.

McClymonds is the last of the Oakland Athletic League schools to start its season and much interest is circulating as to the showing the West Oakland school will make.

ST. MARY'S GRID SQUAD WEAKENED BY MANY CASUALTIES

Coach Andy Smith Claims Winner of Pacific Coast Conference Title Will Be the Best Team in the Country

CONLAN, GRANT AMONG VETERANS ON INJURED LIST OF RED AND BLUE

Gannon, Diminutive Quarterback Star, Looks to Be Find of Season for Local College; New End Material Gives Madigan Cause to Smile.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

Early season scrimmage has taken its toll of veterans at St. Mary's College and with one week of hard practice behind, Coach "Slip" Madigan has a weakened first string eleven going through the workouts these evenings.

In previous years the loss of as many men on the disabled list would almost have caused practice to stop for lack of material but, while Madigan admits that the return of these men to work within the next week is essential to making a good showing in the first big game of the St. Mary's schedule, against California, October 4, the Saints will be able to go into action a week from Sunday hardly missing the crippled men.

The first to go out of action was Louis "Dutch" Conlan. Returning following an operation, Conlan lasted less than one practice before being injured while blocking a runner going down under a punt. Madigan stated last night that while his veteran quarterback is still on crutches he is expected back by the early part of next week, although he will be rested up until the game with the Golden Bears.

Grant Will Be Out For a Week.

Hugh Grant, the veteran St. Mary's halfback and star punter, is also unable to turn out in a suit these nights and is not expected back in action for another week. Grant was injured while hitting the bucking strap and while Madigan believes Grant will be in shape for the game with the Mare Island Sailors September 28, he is taking no chances and is developing his squad prepared to do without the services of any of his men not in the best of shape.

The nightly practice schedule at St. Mary's is calculated to either harden every man on the squad—or ruin them. Starting with setting up exercises as soon as the squad reports on the field at 3:15, Madigan keeps the entire group of thirty-five first string candidates jumping until the final whistle along about 5:30.

Heavy Schedule Of Daily Work.

Included in the workout schedule is punting practice in which Madigan has his ends going down under Hungerford's and King's punts, nailing the receiver.

St. Mary's ends this year will not only be fast, but heavy. Five strapping big fellows, including Pat O'Rourke and Collins, the veteran combination of last year, are scrapping for the positions and it is anybody's race at present.

Gannon, the diminutive St. Mary's quarterback prospect, looks to be the find of the season at Madigan's camp. Smaller than Bradshaw when the latter was the sensation at Nevada, Gannon is not only as elusive as an eel when it comes to being tackled, but is shifty in running with the ball, is a sure receiver under punts and has a good head.

During Conlan's absence Gannon has been calling signals for the first string St. Mary's team and while he lacks experience, has already mastered the rudiments of the system nicely. He is a boy who should be heard from during the season.

Billiard Notes

Marc Catton took Dr. Weston into camp last night at the Oakland billiard parlors 250 to 50. The game was 18-2 balk line and Catton had high run of 57 and an average of 30.

At Wright's Gondolfo defeated Williams, 21 to 16, in 63 innings. The previous evening he won from Riley, 16 to 12, in 34 innings.

Last Night's fight results

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—Johnny Adams, Pacific coast lightweight boxing champion, successfully defended his title here last night, winning a decision over Phil Salvadore of Sacramento in the four-round main event at Vernon arena. The bout was a return match, the pair having fought a draw last week.

In the semi-windup Racehorse Roberts, Oakland middleweight, won a decision over Jimmy Darcy of Portland.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—William (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., won the judges' decision over Tommy Robson of Malden in a 10-round bout here last night. Stribling won seven rounds and Robson took two, the eighth being even.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh scored a technical knockout over Archie Walker of Brooklyn in the first round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 17.—Neil Clisby, Riverside heavyweight, and Kid Williams of Hollywood fought a slow draw in the main event here last night.

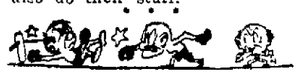
In the semi-windup Jack Martin of Los Angeles was given a draw with Battling Dody.

YAKIMA, Wash., Sept. 17.—Sheriff L. D. Luce and his deputies last night stopped a bout being held at Union Gap near here and arrested two boxers and seven other men connected with the smoker card, which was put on under the auspices of the Yakima Eagles' lodge.

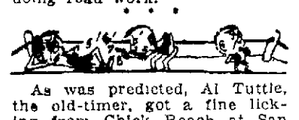
Berlenbach Gets Bout With McTigue

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Mike McTigue, light heavyweight champion of the world, will meet Paul Berlenbach in a title bout at Madison Square Garden on October 25, Tex Rickard announced last night.

The proceeds of next Wednesday's boxing show at the Auditorium will be used to boost the ten-round bill which will be on the ballot in November. In honor of the occasion Promoter Simpson is lining up an all-star card of eight bouts and some of the best-known performers in the four round game will participate. Efforts are being made today to land Sammy Mandell, who is at present in the south. Joe Miller and Red Uhlan, who boxed a tough fight across the bay last week, will be one of the special events, while Spec Ramies and Dynamite Murphy will also do their stuff.



Writing from Los Angeles, Tom Maloney states that Teddy O'Hara will probably return home without having fought. Jack Doyle sent for him to box Johnny Adams, but Salvadore and Johnny put up such a hot scrap in their first meeting that they were rematched for last night. Adams won a close verdict this time. Maloney adds that Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, is in a bad way. Ad harbors the hallucination that he is going to fight Benny Leonard and insists on doing road work.



As was predicted, Al Tuttle, the old-timer, got a fine licking from Chick Roach at San Jose last night. Roach hit the veteran with everything and the bout was stopped in the second round. Battling Larson was defeated by Tony Passich on the same card.

Bert Finch, manager of Frankie Schoell, writes that he would like to bring his stable to the coast. Schoell has defeated Billy Wells and Dave Shade and is aching for a match with Jimmy Duffy. He weighs 147 pounds, but is willing to give away a little weight if necessary. Teddy Meyers, who has defeated Jack Bernstein, Sid Barbarian, Rocky Kansas and others, is also a member of the Fich stable.

New Freshmen Report; Cards Well Supplied

First Year Squad Largest in History; 'Varsity Men Look in Shape.

By DAVID MEIKLEJOHN

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 17.—Stanford's pessimistic outlook on the freshman squad changed materially today with the reporting of twenty new players.

Coach "Husky" Hunt of the yearling squad reiterated his statement made yesterday morning to the effect that the freshmen looked lighter than last year, declaring that the 1928 squad was heavier but greener.

However, there are some freshmen who have had a reasonable amount of experience, who bring a shining reputation from high school and handle themselves like veterans.

The list runs mostly into backfield players and ends. Among the ends are "Swede" Antonell, from Phoenix, weight 170 pounds; Louis Vincenti, 160 pounds, from Pasadena; Cliff Montgomery, Lodi, 170 pounds, and Masuri Hori, Glendale, 135 pounds.

Some of the backfield men who look most promising are Jack Cowan, 160, "Mike" Murphy, Bakersfield, 148 pounds; Don Hill of Long Beach, 180 pounds; Lyall Everett, Santa Rosa, fullback, weight 200 pounds.

The linemen include Cliff Hoffman of Petaluma, weight 190 pounds; "Red" Mustain, center, from El Paso, weight 175; Bill Clark and Jim Reynolds, tackles, from Pasadena; Don Robesky, Bakersfield, tackle, Vivian Morely, Bakersfield, guard; Bill Sanders, Los Angeles, tackle, and Bob Stahler, Fullerton, a tackle.

"Pop" Warner continued to put his varsity men through stiff paces today. He divided the squad into six teams and ran through some swift signal practice, and entertained with the tackling dummy.

Jim Arthur, Card discus thrower, reported this morning and was placed at guard among the veterans of last year's team. Arthur looks to be in good condition and weighs approximately 190 pounds.

Ernie Nevers weighed in this morning at 205 pounds. It seems improbable that the big fullback will lose any weight as he is in the pink of shape.

A tally taken this morning showed ninety-six freshmen and eighty-five varsity men on the list. It is interesting to note a curious development in the interest taken in freshmen football for the last three years.

In 1922 eleven freshmen reported for the first day's practice, in 1923 there were twenty-nine, this year 76 showed up for initial practice.

GOLF

By W. D. McNICOLL.

The women members of Claremont held a flag tournament yesterday with most of the regular competitors present. Mrs. Roy Reed, winner of the recently completed electric tournament, again finished first, her last putt on the eighteenth green coming to rest 4 feet from the cup.

Mrs. Reed has a handicap of 22 plus 78 the par for the course, gave her 100 strokes allowance to medal the course.

Mrs. B. P. Legare, with an allowance of 89 strokes, holed out on the seventeenth with her eighteenth stroke and seemed a certain winner with 9 strokes to spare, but found all kinds of trouble on the home hole and finished six feet from the cup, taking second place.

Miss Alice Knowles, who has been absent for several months, competed yesterday but failed to score well. With the exception of the winner and runner up few of the competitors played up to their regular standard.

Others who competed were: Mrs. Hugo Lorber, Mrs. Clyde Waterman, Mrs. Archie Andrew, Mrs M. C. Milton, Mrs. Geo. Q. Chase, Mrs. W. J. Gardner, Mrs F. Hume, Mrs Geo Allen, Mrs Rollo Fay, Mrs R. R. Yates and Mrs. C. A. Stacy.

Some excellent scores have been recorded over the Sequoyah course recently, and many players who have been satisfied with scores in the low eighties are now medaling the 18 holes in the seventies.

W. Webber playing in a foursome which included several low handicap players had the satisfactory medal score of 77 and will have some difficulty in persuading the handicap committee to allow him to enjoy his present handicap rating of 14.

The new starting system inaugurated by Bob MacDonald at Sequoyah seems to be working out in a satisfactory manner. While two ball matches have no right of way over four ball foursomes the latter frequently request the twosome to go through, a courtesy that tends to speed up play and causes practically no delay to the four ball match.

In the recent semi-final matches at Lake Chabot in the City championship, one of the matches failed to get started on time and during almost an hours' delay, numerous four ball matches were sent off at five minute intervals, but thanks to the cooperation of the officials of the Oakland Municipal links, the delayed championship match caught up with the other tournament players at the seventh green.

'Prospects Are Poor For Good Season,' Smith

California Coach Claims That Winner of Conference Will Be Best in Country.

(This is the first of a series of nine articles written by coaches of the leading universities and colleges of the Pacific Coast, outlining prospects for the 1924 football season.)

By ANDY L. SMITH
Football Coach University of California Pacific Coast Champions.
(Written Exclusively for International News Service.)

BERKELEY, Sept. 17. — Prospects for the University of California football squad to continue their record of victories, unbroken for four years, are poorer now than at any time since before the war.

It has never been my habit to assume either a pessimistic or optimistic frame of mind at the beginning of a football season, but simple facts present themselves this year which should convince anyone that California is through as far as football supremacy on the coast is concerned.

ANDY SMITH

Out of fifteen men who earned their varsity letters in football last fall but four are returning to college. Three regulars who started in the U. S. C., Washington and Stanford games are all that are left to us. The entire backfield, composed of Evans, Nichols, Dunn and Witter, two tackles, Beam and Newmeyer, Perry, a guard, and Hufford, an end, will be missing.

Captain Herrell, Carey and Nell are the nucleus around which the new team must be built. Very little can be looked forward to in the way of substitutes, as Best and Topham, two substitutes linesmen, are gone, and we had very little good material among the other substitutes.

Our freshmen team was beaten by both the University of Southern California and Stanford, leaving little material to be looked for from that source.

With the other leading conference teams on the coast losing but two or three regulars I can see nothing but an inevitable defeat waiting for California this year.

The team which does win the conference title however, will be the best football team in the country, in my opinion, as the caliber of the game on the coast this fall will be of the best.

(In tomorrow's story Coach A. A. Exendine of Washington State College will discuss prospects for his squad.)

Trojans Have Seventeen Vets Back on Squad

SEATTLE, Sept. 17.—Of twenty-two men who earned varsity football letters last year, seventeen are eligible for competition this fall, declared Elmer Henderson, head football coach of the University of Southern California.

"The Trojan eleven should be stronger than any machine turned out by the institution in the last few years," said Coach Henderson. "Last year's championship freshman squad will give my team reserve strength for the first time, although few of them will earn regular berths in eleven.

"The outlook for this year is the best in the history of the institution. Potentially, Stanford has the strongest team in the Pacific Coast football conference, but Washington, Idaho, California and University of California will give the Cardinals a close race for the title."

Tail-End Clubs Check Leaders In Flag Battle

Robins Slip Back Half Game; Senators Again Lead in American.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—A new act in baseball's big revue promises to sustain interest until the final curtain of the season.

"The dance of the turning worms" was presented yesterday by a chorus which included the Cardinals. Reds, Phillies and Athletics. The Browns and the Indians were also billed for the act but the former were delayed by rain and the latter missed their cue.

The Cardinals scored the biggest hit of the day by smothering Brooklyn under a 17 to 3 score, which dragged the Robins another half game away from the Giants and nearer the Pirates. Jim Bottomley, what is thought to be a modern major league record by driving in 12 runs.

Cincinnati collaborated by splitting a double header with the Giants, losing the first game 5-1, and winning the second, 3-1.

"The lowly Phils" arose to divide a double bill with the Pirates. One big inning which Cooper was touched for several hits and six runs lost the first game, 6 to 1, for the Corsairs, who came back strongly to win the second, 13 to 7.

As a result of the surprise party, the parade of the leaders in the National league was held up. The Giants are still two and one-half games ahead of the Pirates, who are now only one game behind Brooklyn.

The standings up to date follow:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.	To Play
New York	87	56	.608	11
Brooklyn	86	58	.597	10
Pittsburgh	83	57	.593	14

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.	To Play
Washington	83	59	.584	13
New York	82	59	.581	13
Detroit	79	65	.549	10

While the Yankees watched the rain at St. Louis, Washington broke the tie for first place, and took a half game lead in the race by beating Cleveland, 6 to 2.

Eddie Rommel held Detroit to seven hits while his mates batted out a 14 to 2 Athletic victory which shoved the Tigers five games behind the leaders.

Sheely's three base hit with the bases filled gave the White Sox a commanding lead which developed into an 8 to 4 victory.

MORE SCHOOLS NEEDED.

Oakland must be prepared to accept the obligations which come with its remarkable growth.

In three years 43,000 new homes have been erected in this city: in eight months there have been 11,000 of them. This community of 11,000 homes which has been absorbed in Oakland in less than a year would make up a sizable city if viewed alone. And that one of 43,000, added to our population in three years, would stand well up in the state's list of cities. Doubtless, as a separate city it would have an adequate school department. As a part of Oakland it is deserving no less.

So long as the city continues to grow at this rate the demand will be for more schools. The average daily attendance in Oakland schools this month is 3500 greater than for the same month one year ago. To care for them, alone, three or four large school buildings are demanded. Unfortunately, this 3500 does not include all of those who are in need of better school facilities. Some 14,000 children are housed in portable or temporary classrooms and the other buildings are crowded with some 5000 children in excess of the proper capacity.

What is to be done? If the city continues to erect portable structures as fast as the enrollment increases it will be investing its money in temporary buildings which, in a few years, will be worthless, and which cannot be properly heated and ventilated. There is no one who would call this a wise expenditure of public money.

The opportunity to provide school facilities adequate to Oakland's growth will come on September 30, when the bond issue will be placed before the voters. The children of the larger city need more schools.

SECRETARY MELLON RETURNS.

Back from Europe where he had the opportunity to study conditions, Secretary Mellon has said that the acceptance of the Dawes plan means not only the salvation of Germany but the restoration of the full economic life of the Continent.

With the reparations question hanging fire Europe has not been able to return to the pursuits of peace. In Germany the people believed they were confronted with an impossible debt and with this before them there was little incentive and little disposition to buckle down to work. And those nations which had been led to believe that they would be benefited because of enormous payments to be made by Germany counted upon those payments in place of their own endeavor. They delayed the resumption of peace-time activities.

As Mr. Mellon sees it there was despondency in Germany and over-confidence in the other countries. The politicians had been promising that the debts of France and Great Britain and Belgium would be paid by Germany, and the weeks, months, and years passed with the reparations tangle as intricate as ever.

The need of a settlement became pressing. Only an agreement which would establish a definite basis for the payments of claims, and one which the Germans could pay, would start the back-to-work movement in Europe. That agreement came with the Dawes plan, a plan which has restored confidence and paved the way for industrial loans.

As indicated by Secretary Hughes nearly two years ago, and as frequently repeated since, the reparations problem was purely a business question to be decided by business men. It was for that reason that the United States refused to have any official part in the adjustment of the differences between European nations. Germany's ability to pay and the manner of payment were questions not for political discussion but for economic investigation and agreement on business principles. Mr. Dawes and his associates went to Europe not as representatives of the United States Government but as business men of broad experience, without prejudice as between European nations but free to recommend such a plan of settlement as they deemed practicable. The plan of settlement arrived at is one that will have the confidence of the business world, and, that confidence having been established, it will be practicable to float loans in various countries where capital is available for investment. Without that confidence no such loans would be possible.

Another remark made by Mr. Mellon on his return from Europe is worthy of repetition. He said that the United States is wielding a stronger influence in Europe and is in a better position as a non-member of the League of Nations than if a member. If this country were a League member it might be hampered by political considerations. The formulation and adoption of the Dawes plan might have been impossible if the United States had been officially connected with the disputes going on in Europe.

THE HURLEY DEBT PLAN.

There are some unusual provisions in Edward N. Hurley's plan for the settlement of the French war debt to the United States but nothing has transpired to indicate that they will not be given a studious consideration. Mr. Hurley is a member of the American debt funding commission and was wartime chairman of the United States Shipping Board. He announces that the plan which he has submitted has been favorably received by the French government.

The Hurley settlement proposal provides for the payment of the French debt in 67 years at the rate of $100,000,000 a year and interest, together with an agreement by the United States to reinvest half of the annual payments in French industrial bonds. The author of the plan says it is the hope to create a basis for agreement which will liquidate the debt and provide help to French industry similar to that which will be given German industry under the Dawes adjustment. He elaborates on his proposal by suggesting that one-half of the sum this country would invest in French industry, or one-fourth of the total payments, should be put into new ventures such as the development of water-power in which phase of industrial activity France is said to be deficient.

Before opinion is expressed on the Hurley proposal it must be ascertained just what he means with the announcement that it has received the approval of the French government and the probable effects of binding this nation to 67 years of investment in French industries will have to be considered by the heads of our government. At least it may be said that the plan holds out a possibility for agreement and for the settlement of a debt which France has said it would start to pay as soon as Germany begins making its reparations payments.

THE FOREST DRAIN.

Forests in this country are being depleted at the rate of 25 billion cubic feet of timber annually, while the growth each year is but 6 billion cubic feet.

How long can the country stand the drain? If it is agreed that this is an uneconomic and unhealthy situation, what is to be done?

The Government, states, colleges, and even municipalities are at last attacking the problem. Prominent among the agencies stimulating interest and urging action is the American Tree Association. A result has been the passage of the new forestry promotion act under which the Government will match the State, dollar for dollar, up to the agreed limits, money appropriated for the purpose of re-covering with forests the 81 million idle acres now available.

"You can't get trees," says Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, "any other way than by replanting."

The Federal government has set aside 157 million acres for National Forests which are being judiciously cut and, so far as possible, protected from fire. The states are doing some notable work in the saving of timber. California, as a member of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, shares in the work of that body. The "Save the Redwoods League" of this state has prevented the cutting of 6,000 acres. In the general movement many colleges are contributing by training experts and sending men into the field.

In an article in the Brooklyn Eagle Frederick Boyd Stevenson asks: "Is not the United States Government the proper authority to take the lead and unite all these forces under one guiding spirit that will so concentrate their power that the work accomplished will be increased many fold? Suppose the Federal Government at the head of a united forest policy should get all the states and all the universities and all the private forestry associations to cooperate and have a single, definite forestry plan—would not much greater results be accomplished?"

So it is proposed that a congress of all the states be called with the nation for the formulation of such a program. At last the legal machinery by which the denuded lands may be replanted has been supplied. The drain on the forest area continues. The thing to do is to plant trees on those idle acres.

Hayward's rodeo was so successful that plans are being made for the 1925 show. The proceeds of the affair, as at Livermore, are being used to pay for a park and accommodations to be turned over to public use.

THE STANDARD FOR GOLD.

A familiar figure in the North is the man who at the mere mention of gold drops whatever he is doing and "mushes" through the wilderness toward "the back of beyond" to stake out a claim. All the heart-breaking frustration of hope in the past cannot deter him, and the incurable optimist clutches at every slim chance that comes to him.

The latest instance is that of the captain and crew of a passenger steamer on the Strikine River, in British Columbia, who abandoned the boat when word came of a lucky strike of gold in the dim distance. Nobody hears of the losers in this everlasting game of hunting-the-rainbow; it is only those favored by Lady Luck who are advertised, and the "cheechaco" green to the quest cannot see himself in any picture except that of a crowning success. For the failures there is the silence of bleaching bones upon the abandoned trail.—Philadelphia Ledger.

DISCOURAGED.

I was discouraged, and I bowed
My head and sought to shun the crowd
And fling my care away;
Thought I: "They laughing drink their wine
And have no heavy grief like mine.
No sorrows, night or day."

And watched them pass, the smiling wife,
Her husband at her side;
Mothers and children trooping by,
It seemed in all the world that I
Alone was heavy-eyed.

They know not what it means to weep,
Said I. "They walk with faith and hope
Where I can only creep and grope.
They laugh at toil and care;
Not one of them has ever felt
The cruel storms of trouble pelt,
None has a scar to wear."

"Look closer," said a voice within These, too, have seen pale death come in,
These, too, have loved and lost.
These, too, have seen their hopes go down;
One passes now, too great to frown,
Whose soul is tempest tossed."

I looked, and near a cripple came,
His eyes with joy of life aflame,
No hint of pain he gave,
"If he who suffers all the while
Has courage in his heart to smile
Can you not be as brave?"

"None passes by your door today
Who has not trod a rugged way
Or felt the lash of fate;
All these who seem so free from woe
Have cruel scars they do not show.
Can you not be as great?"

IT SEEMS TO ME

By Heywood Broun.

The decision of Justice John R. Caverly in the Franks case seems to me an admirable and a civilized document. Although the sentence of life imprisonment instead of hanging was largely motivated by the youth of the two defendants, the Court mentions the mental responsibility of the two criminals.

"Had they been normal they would not have committed the crime," said Justice Caverly. And later, "It is beyond the province of this Court, as it is beyond the capacity of human science in its present state of development, to predicate ultimate responsibility for human acts."

This is a recognition that our present system of criminal procedure is inadequate. The interest of the community must always lie in the problem of why the crime has been committed. Such investigation is difficult, but it is the road which American criminology must travel. The fear of death has failed signally as a deterrent of crime. Nothing is solved when a murderer is executed. In such an event the state has merely said, "I will kill this man because I don't know what else to do with him."

Every criminal is a riddle. To execute him is equivalent to saying, "Give up." Leopold and Loeb should live on so that the solution of this particular and conspicuous aberration may be solved if it is humanly possible.

Several readers have written to me reproachfully because of the end of Magnolia, whose death was caused by a fishbone in a filet mignon.

"It is," writes N. A. S., "but another example of your notorious carelessness. If you had only used sardine bones instead of sturgeon the result would not have been so terrible and the affair may have had a more romantic ending."

To me, of course, there is nothing lacking of romance in the affair. If Magnolia had lived on, who knows but that I might have tired of her? In time her sophistication might have come to seem stupidity. Even as it was, I had begun to grow a little restive at such times as she hummed "Limehouse Blues." She knew no other tune.

Tragedy has made her glamorous. Now when I hear "Limehouse Blues" I weep instead of wriggling in my chair.

And I suppose that my fondness for Mabel is in reality a tribute to the memory of Magnolia. They were second cousins and there is a decided family resemblance. To be sure, I have adopted a different attitude in regard to Mabel. It has been my plan to teach her to face the facts of life and so avoid them. I myself gave her the Book of Etiquette. She knows precisely what I took she should use for every course and gets no end of fun out of not using it.

Nor is she ever puzzled by the problem "Should she ask him in?" By the simple device of living on 232d street Mabel has avoided this grave perplexity. "There never is," she explains in her wholesome, laughing way, "anybody to ask in."

Although Mabel has no parents, guardians or relatives and is only seventeen years old, she has no fears of the dangers of a great city. Once, in a conservatory, a hardened man of the world tried to kiss her. She neither screamed nor expostulated, but merely remarked coldly: "Always an usher, never a bridegroom." He unhanded her immediately, for he, too, had read the advertisements.

"To begin with," writes Lowell Sherman, who is playing in "High Stakes," "the world is full of all kinds of people who act in all kinds of ways. Some do some things with their hands and faces when they talk, and some do others. Therefore, when the critics say that my facial expressions and gestures are what Mr. Woods would call so-and-so, I should like to know what is the authorized facial expression and gesture. Who sets the pace? Is it Mumbo Jumbo or Cal Coolidge? Is it His Royal Highness or Alexander Woolcott? Is it Mrs. Fiske or is it the fellow who tends the radio station on Mars? Whom do I have to act like to be right and normal?

"In the second place, I maintain that Mr. Lowell Sherman is an authorized and legitimate human being, the same as a critic, a botanist, or the third vice-president of the National City Bank. Therefore, I insist that Mr. Lowell Sherman's ways, gestures, expressions and concepts are as legitimate and authorized as any other human being's. It follows, therefore, as the day the night, that the human beings Mr. Sherman projects upon the stage in terms of his own legitimate concepts are just as credible as the way Mr. Broun walks, which is Mr. Broun's way; or the way General Dawes wears his pipe, which is General Dawes' way. What, then, in the name of all that's priceless, ineffable and mortal, is the matter with everybody but me?

"In the third place, whoever says the theater is real life is living the kind of real life from which God preserve anybody who wants to survive beyond the age of 30, sane, sober and eligible to jury duty. The theater is true to life in the sense that an oil painting is a likeness of the sitter. But you don't feed a portrait on it. There is just that difference between it and the fellow who sat for it. There is just that difference between life and the theater.

"There are conventions of time, of space, of episode in the theater which have no more to do with life than the wheels of an automobile have to do with the natural means of locomotion of the occupant of the car. The theater and the car get you somewhere in the real world and have something to do with the business of living, but that doesn't make the theater life or an automobile a pair of legs.

FATAL PARTY DOOMS U. C. FRATERNITY

Death of Alpha Beta Phi President in Auto Crash Results in Dissolution of Order by Student Body

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—After an existence of three years at the University of California, the Alpha Beta Phi fraternity is today no more.

An edict dissolving the membership of the fraternity was issued last night by President William W. Campbell and Carl Byers, chairman of the students' affairs committee. Action in the case of Theodore Eggers, senior law student, who was driving the automobile which caused Dale D. Smith, fraternity president, to plunge to his death in Wildcat Canyon on Sunday morning, will be deferred until after his trial on a charge of driving while intoxicated. According to Joel Hildebrand, dean of men, individual punishment of Eggers will depend upon the outcome of his trial.

RECOGNITION BARRED.

Whether the chapter house at 3434 Bowditch street will be closed by the college students could not be learned today. According to university officials, they prevent students from maintaining quarters together, but they declare that such a house is deprived of official recognition by the university. It is expected that the house will be closed.

Members of the fraternity, through their acting president, Mervin D. Perkins, have declared that they will make no efforts to re-organize under any other name, and that they will accept the ruling of the college heads "to its last letter."

That the fraternity was not only on probation, but had been again warned just ten days prior to the fatal accident of Sunday morning that it would be abolished if members did not "behave" themselves, was revealed today by Dean Hildebrand, who sat with the students affairs committee yesterday afternoon in investigating the accident.

FEW OFFENDERS.

Commenting on the situation, President Campbell said:

"I beg to assure the parents and other citizens of California that the president and deans of the University have been constantly holding in mind not only standards of scholarship, but the general subject of conduct and morality of the students and student organizations. I do not know of any other community of 10,000 young men and women which contains so small a number of offending members."

The ousted fraternity contains approximatley 30 members. It was founded as a "local" fraternity August 21, 1921.

GIRL COMPANION SOUGHT

MARTINEZ, Sept. 17.—Armed with justice court subpoenas, deputy sheriffs of Contra Costa county today began a search for Miss Adelle Dresser, 1836 Clinton avenue, Alameda, a passenger in Eggert's automobile in the alleged "gin party" which ended with a fatality. Failure of officers to locate Miss Dresser at her home on two visits, caused an abrupt postponement of Eggert's preliminary examination on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, before Judge Frank Glass here yesterday. The hearing was postponed until Monday. Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey is anxious to secure Miss Dresser's testimony, believing that it will corroborate the testimony of Berkeley police officers that Eggert was "intoxicated."

Gets Divorce

MRS. NELVA G. TRIPP, wife of former Piedmont policeman, who charged her husband had many affairs with other women.

WIFE NAMES SIX WOMEN WOOED BY POLICEMAN HUBBY

Scorning to share the affections of her husband, Raymond, with at least six other women, Mrs. Nelva G. Tripp, 1058 Talbot avenue, Albany, sued for divorce and is today in possession of an interlocutory decree granted by Judge John D. Murphey.

The testimony given by Mrs. Tripp was verified by love letters and a locket. Tripp was a gay Lothario as a policeman in Piedmont and later as a tailor in San Francisco, the wife indicated.

The couple were married April 20, 1919, and in July of 1920 Tripp began his philandering, according to the wife. During July and August of that year Tripp, while patrolling his beat in Piedmont with an automobile, would have Miss Helen Sommarstrom with him, and carried her picture in the locket introduced into evidence. He also had an affair with a domestic, she said.

During the same year Mrs. Tripp found an endearing letter addressed to her husband by Lottie M. Clark, and another one written by Violet Stender, 489 Eighteenth avenue, San Francisco. There was also a dance invitation from Hazel May, while another alleged sweetheart was named Verna Reese.

Mrs. Tripp said her husband posed as a single man and while she was ill in a hospital told the nurses she was his sister. They separated November 20, 1922.

Alameda Attorney Joins Fare Fight

ALAMEDA, Sept. 17.—Official sanction of the participation of W. J. Locke, city attorney, in the movement to reduce street car fares by working with the Citizens' Better Street Car League was given last night by the city council. Mayor Frank Otis announced that he was in touch with mayors of the other eastbay cities regarding the "extra cent."

MERCHANTS EXCHANGE OKEHS BONDS

Endorsement of School Issue Follows Month Probe of Provisions and Quiz of the Divergent Factions

Following a month of investigation during the course of which architects, contractors, bond brokers and the two factions of the board of education were taken into consultation, the Merchants Exchange last evening endorsed the school bond issue to be voted upon September 30. The investigation is declared to be one of the most comprehensive yet made in the provisions of the bond issue.

When the vote was taken there was but one dissenting vote out of an attendance of more than thirty. Particular significance is attached to the endorsement because full consideration was given to the opposition to the bond issue on the part of School Directors Georgia Ormsby and Fred Campbell. These directors have expressed dissatisfaction with the issue, complaining that there was no way of assuring a business-like expenditure of the funds.

This objection was completely overcome from the standpoint of the businessmen representing the exchange when George Hatch, president of the board of education, explained the working of the standardized plan of construction under which the new schools are to be built.

The report pointed out that under the proposed bond issue bonds will only be issued as required, which means a saving in interest.

The exchange adopted a resolution endorsing the efforts which the directors of the water utility district are making in going about the work necessary to provide a new water supply.

George Sheldon, one of the directors who was recently married, was presented with a silver set.

Hanford Minister Charged With Bribery

HANFORD, Cal., Sept. 17.—Rev. Guy Field, pastor of the "Temple of the Lord," a church organization here, has been held to answer on a charge of bribery in connection with a citation accusing him of driving his automobile above the speed limit. His accuser in the bribery case is Justice of the Peace Edgar Irwin, who alleges that the minister "slipped a ten dollar bill into my hand while shaking hands with me."

Field's defense was that he intended the money to apply upon his fine and that he did not intend to attempt to bribe the judge.

Missing Bride

MRS. EVELYN PRYAL, 17, who disappeared after telling her mother she was going to commit suicide.

MOTHER SEEKS MISSING BRIDE

After telling her mother she was going to end her life, Mrs. Evelyn Pryal, 17-year-old bride, is missing today. Police are making a search of the bay region for her.

"I've had all I can stand. I am going to throw myself in Lake Merritt," Mrs. Pyral told her mother yesterday, according to the police report.

Her mother who reported her missing last night, said domestic troubles had made her daughter despondent and was responsible for her running away several months ago.

The girl was married to Charles W. Pyral and resides at 276 Mather street. July 9 she disappeared and was located several days later at the home of her aunt in the northern part of the state. She is described as being 5 feet 6 inches in height, weighing 130 pounds, dark complexion, wearing a pink dress with a gray sport coat and white shoes and stockings.

5,600,000 TONS OF SUGAR NEEDED FOR U. S. IN 1924

Visible Stocks Disappear and Reports Heard Cuba Will Raise Prices.

SPECIAL BY WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Up to the middle of September the people of the United States have used 5,100,000,000 pounds or 4,000,000 tons of sugar since the first of the year according to figures compiled by Facts About Sugar, the journal of the sugar trade. This is the largest amount ever distributed in a like period of time and in consequence the quantity remaining from the large crops produced this season in the United States and Cuba has been reduced to less than 1,600,000 tons.

1,400,000 TONS NEEDED.

The amount required to meet the needs of the country for the remainder of the year is placed at 2,800,000,000 pounds or 1,400,000 tons. The rapid decrease in visible supplies under the influence of the heavy consumption during July and August is the principal reason for the advance of three-quarters of a cent in the wholesale price of sugar during the past six weeks. Further advances are looked for in trade circles during the next month as the country will be forced to rely almost entirely on sugar imported from Cuba during that period. With the exception of 50,000 to 60,000 tons the entire crops of Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines have been shipped.

BEET CROP COMING.

By the middle of October, the new crop of beet sugar produced in western states will begin to come upon the market as the factories producing this sugar will begin operating about October 1. About the same time Louisiana cane sugar will also become available as the mills in that state begin grinding cane in October. Louisiana will have only half a crop this year on account of the prolonged period of dry weather. The beet sugar crop will be a little larger than last year and is expected to reach about 800,000 tons. Earlier in the season it was estimated that the output would be 900,000 tons or over but dry weather in California, Utah and Idaho and as far east as Colorado and Nebraska has cut down the yield throughout these sections.

MARKET DATES.

Of the entire beet sugar crop not more than half or about 400,000 tons can be marketed before the close of the year. The total amount of beet and Louisiana sugar available before the end of the year will be perhaps 450,000 tons or hardly enough to supply the needs of consumers until cane sugar of the next crop begins to come on the market along in January. It is a fortunate thing for the country that it has these domestic crops to rely on as otherwise a serious shortage would be in prospect and prices would rise to very high levels. As it is, there is no likelihood of a real scarcity although prices are likely to be somewhat higher during the next three months than they have been during the earlier part of the year.

TICKER AND TAPE

Gross earnings of the Metro-Goldwyn Pictures Corporation from September 1, 1923 to May 17, 1924 amounted to $8,830,107 of which $656,892 represents net profit. The balance sheet as of the latter date reports assets totaling $17,212,184, including $1,930,693 for good will $2,822,380 for advances and $6,028,904 in inventories. Accounts payable amount to $1,533,029. Other liabilities include Loew's Inc., cash advances $3,567,712, and $786,704 collateral notes outstanding.

Official figures now available indicate that the output of gold at the mines of the Rand in August was 809,571 fine ounces, compared with 829 fine ounces in July and 768,371 fine ounces in August, 1923.

Sales of the National Tea Company during July amounted to $2,878,490 an increase of $364,157 from the July 1923 total. Sales in the first seven months of 1924 aggregated $21,973,377, compared with $16,298,285 in the corresponding period of last year.

The Tidal Osage Oil Company for the six months ended June 30, 1924, reports a surplus of $250,979 after all charges compared with a deficit of $80,320 in the comparative period of 1923.

The Hartman Corporation for the six months ended June 30, 1924, had a net income of $622,664 after charges and federal taxes equal to $1.58 a share earned on 393,615 shares of no par stock, compared with $1,181,146, or $9.84 a share, on $12,000,000 outstanding stock ($100 par) in first half of 1923.

Ford Motor Co in year ended July 31 produced 63,554 cars 14,672 trucks and 3743 tractors, a total of 81,969 vehicles, compared with 70,328 cars trucks and tractors in preceding year. Amount of net profit will not be available until annual report is issued in November but estimates based on sales figures indicates a considerable decline compared with preceding fiscal year, when net was $5,106,197, or $72.94 a share on the $7,000,000 common of $100 par value outstanding says Poors.

The Chevrolet Motor Co. is putting into effect a plan for financing purchase of its cars, called the Chevrolet 6 per cent purchase certificates plan. This method has been copyrighted and is to be offered exclusively by dealers. By means of a certificate the purchase of an automobile can be started with a first payment and additional weekly or monthly payments until one-third the price has been paid. Interest at 6 per cent will be credited on this sum by the dealer when the prospective purchaser has completed payments.

Hupp Motor Car Corporation is expending a large amount of money in the development of its new eight-cylinder automobile but the earnings statement for the year is expected to show a small margin of profits above dividend requirements, it was stated in authoritative quarters September 5. One interest conversant with the automobile industry is authority for the statement that the bringing out of a new car costs anywhere from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, and the development costs of the Hupp Corporation in this respect are likely to be in excess of the smaller figure. There will be no financing in connection with the development, it was stated the costs being borne out of earnings.

How Money Grows, Told in Pamphlet

A booklet entitled "The Amazing Way Money Grows" is being distributed by William Cavalier & Co. It covers steps involved in acquiring a definite fortune on a specific saving. Schedules are also given showing what various amounts saved by the year or month amount to over a definite period of time. A statement giving statistics as to what happens to the average one hundred persons is also included in this pamphlet. The wisdom of saving is explained and it also shows the possibilities of systematic saving.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 17.—The Fisher Ohio Body Company, engaged mainly on work for General Motors, has speeded up operations 15 per cent in the last fortnight. The Eaton Axle Company announces the axle and spring business is on the upturn.

Magnavox continued to be the feature of the San Francisco stock market today. It was bid up to $3.72½ for its dollar par value shares and at that there was none of the stock forthcoming. Traders declared they had no authentic knowledge of the reason for the sudden rise of this stock beyond reports that it was doing a big business and that its forthcoming earnings statement would surprise a lot of people. Zellerbach common was sought for at 107½ but no stock was attracted at this figure. The big oils were a little stronger than yesterday notwithstanding reports of cuts in the price of both crude oil and gasoline in certain sections east. The utilities did not develop any trading worth speaking of. The sugars were firm but quiet.

Wall Street bulls turned the tables on the bears today and traders on the short side of the New York market scampered to cover up their shorts as prices were marked higher in every department of the market with the possible exception of oil stocks. The opening gun was fired in the first few minutes of trading when Crucible Steel heavily sold on rumors that the dividend was in danger, snapped back into a higher price level and no stock was obtainable within a point or two of yesterday's close.

From then it moved steadily forward to above 58 for a gain of more than seven points as short sellers covered. The bears were badly shaken again on attempting to cover on other stocks, found conditions practically the same.

Bullish pools were ready to mark up the prices of their favorite stocks today as selling pressure was lifted and buying demand increased. Cast Iron Pipe at 106¾ was up about three points. General Electric gained 5 at 262½. Crucible Steel up 5¼ at 58¼; Baldwin 2¾ at 122¼. American Can 2½ at 128½, and U S Steel at 108¼ was 1½ points higher.

Foreign exchange rates supplied an accurate index of the effect of international negotiations on important questions abroad and some encouragement was also taken from the favorable reception by the French people of the Hurley scheme for refunding the French debt.

Railroad stocks joined the upward movement shortly after the noon period and ten or more of the active issues held the center of the stage. Frisco preferred made a new move at 61¾ while the common stock was up more than a point at 29⅜. Southwestern preferred at 51⅝, Missouri Pacific preferred at 54 and Atlantic Coast Line at 124 represented new high prices for the movement.

Oil stocks were submitted to another severe test today in the announced cutting of crude oil prices in midcontinent by Prairie Oil & Gas, and subsequently by Gulf Oil Company. They were inactive rather than weak, being depressed by the general feeling that the oil industry is about on the turn, and as in the latter part of 1923, production will now decrease, prices advance, and the companies which purchase oil at the present price level will show a good profit on inventories later in the year.

Severe declines in the price of corn took place today in Chicago, accompanied by heavy selling to stop losses. A return of warm, sunshiny weather left the market without any adequate support from buyers. Shortly before the close values had broken almost six cents a bushel to $1.07½, December delivery.

St Paul preferred stock continues around 2 the lowest figure at which it has sold since 1876. The record high of 218 was made in 1909. The common is selling at 14 or within a fraction of the lowest [illegible] broken sharply [illegible] as of 1925 (total issue $47,000,000 which mature June 1 next) declining to 75 yesterday against 78¾ on the preceding day, while the convertible 4½s lost 3 points to 65¾ and all other issues were weak. Early in the year the 4s of 1925 ran up from 66¾ to 86¾ on heavy absorption supposedly in the interest of the company on the belief that banking arrangements could be perfected for paying off these bonds next June.

During the first half of the year the St Paul system earned net after taxes only $6,427,097, against $9,529,252. It required $20,000,000 in 1923 to pay interest on the $441,172,000 bonds and equipments and the prospect of earning that much this year, in the opinion of Wall Street, is not encouraging.

On the basis of seasonal variations it would appear from net operating income of the first seven months of this year that the road would fall short of its fixed charges at the end of the year. Last year 0.2 per cent was earned on the preferred stock.

Negotiations between the Canadian government and New York bankers for placing a portion of a dominion loan in this market were reported under way today. To meet requirements of $200,000,000 for maturing victory bonds and treasury bills, it was indicated a long term internal loan of $100,000,000 and setting an equal amount of short term securities in this market.

According to Eastern reports, Gillette Safety Razor Company is to have a capital readjustment by distributing the 149,000 unissued shares of the 500,000 authorized on December 1 as a stock dividend. Then it is planned to increase the amount from 500,000 to 2,000,000 shares, the increase to be distributed upon a basis of three additional shares for each share now held. TODAY'S SHORT STORY by Ad Schuster

OUT OF THE JUNGLES

IN all of the tribe of Central American Indians, Onoto, the man, and Wyda, the maid, were the only ones who were white. Because of their color they were held in esteem. The old chief was scarcely more important.

The tribe was preparing for the wedding ceremonial which would unite these two who, so far as they knew, were set apart from all men and women in the world by their color when, through the jungles and dressed in strange garb, come a whole company of white men. The surprise of the savages at seeing these visitors was no greater than that of Leonard Detwiller, leader of the explorers when he saw Onoto and Wyda.

"They are white Indians!" he exclaimed in triumph. "We have proved that the stories of the old conquistadors are true."

The wedding was put off while the tribe entertained Detwiller and his party and, all the while, the white men bargained with the chief. If he would let Onoto and Wyda go with theb to a land where all the men were white there would be many presents.

"But you must bring them back," the chief insisted. "You must swear on all of the holy things of your tribe."

Detwiller made a solemn oath, delivered his presents, and the party left taking with it a wondering man and maid. The journey through the jungle, so difficult for the white men, was easy for the two, but when the villages and cities appeared, Onoto and Wyda were frightened. In their fear and amazement they clung to each other for support and behind their round eyes and solemn faces there was nothing to idicate their thoughts.

Onoto and Wyda knew that for some reason they were objects of curiosity. Men pointed at their little boxes which clinked, and they were made the center of crowds who stared.

But Detwiller hurried his charges to the ship, another thing which was so far beyond any dream the two had ever had that it held their senses in a sort of paralysis. They went through the canal and saw long trains which looked like great snakes spouting smoke. Nothing now could be too great or wonderful; they were prepared.

Of the excitement occasioned by their arrival in New York and of the meaning of their visit to a university where they were regarded intently by a group of elders, they understood nothing. The street cars, subways, great crowds and tall buildings overwhelmed their minds. At first they longed to go back to the tribe, but as they grew more accustomed to the strange sights their fears quieted and they began to enjoy their experiences. Onoto told Wyda that he never wished to go back and the girl said, with a blush, "Only long enough for the wedding."

They spent several months in the land of the white men, learned a few words of English, and then were told it was time to go. Wyda sighed and Onoto shrugged his shoulders.

"There is no help," he said; "we have promised; and when we get back they will never let us go away again."

"I wish," replied the girl, "we had never seen all of this. We will long, all our lives, to return."

So, with presents for the chief and themselves, they went back to the tribe. Detwiller had told them that if they cared to make the journey to New York again he would see that they were cared for, but he did not know that his words only added to their grief. The pride of the tribe in its white members would be too great to let them go.

There was a wedding and a meeting of the tribe on the evening of their return. The fire burned and the group sat close while Onoto related his adventures. The young Indian told of the great ships which moved without sails and sent smoke to the sky. He told of the trains, the cities, the buildings which reached to the clouds, and deep silence greeted his words.

"In the land of the white men," said Onoto, "great snakes carrying hundreds of men and women, more than in ten tribes, run underground and overhead. More people than you have seen in your dreams pass through the streets every minute. The streets are filled with cars in which men ride, and those cars run by themselves. And," he waved toward the sky, "there are white men who fly in the heavens like great birds."

"It is enough," the old chief interrupted. "The whites man has given to Anoto and Wyda the evil tongue. In these few moons they have forgotten what they learned in the jungles. Never in my life have I heard such lies!"

There was a murmur of assent and anger from the circle, and the chief went on. He spoke cruelly and with a fine sarcasm.

"Go," he said, "back to your flying men and great temples. Go back where you learned to lie."

According to Dorothy Dix

It is much more important for a man to select the right sort of woman for a wife than it is for a woman to pick out the right sort of man for a husband.

That is, in America. Abroad, where there are hereditary titles, the case is naturally different. There a duke can marry a barmaid, and thereby raise her to his own rank, but in this country ninety-nine times out of a hundred the husband takes the wife's status, not she his. If King Cophetua had married the beggar maid in the U S A, he would have ended by rattling a tin cup on a street corner instead of the beggar maid queening it beside him on a throne.

Of course, there are exceptions to all rules. Occasionally a woman who marries above her station, as the phrase goes, does climb up to her husband's level, but, as a rule, she drags him down to hers. On the other hand, a superior woman almost invariably lifts her husband to her own position in the world.

Why husbands should go to their wives' place, instead of wives going to their husbands' is easily understood. The woman dominates the home. She strikes its note. She settles who shall be its guests.

The first thing the average bride does when she comes back from her bridal trip is to chuck all of her husband's old friends out of the window and install her own in their places. The man makes an effort to hold on to his intimates, but when they call at the new home they find the doormat so coated with ice that they slip up on it, and after a dinner composed exclusively of cold cuts and frappe politeness they stay away in pity for poor old Tom or Joe.

The situation is precisely the same whether Tom or Joe was a rounder with hosts of friends, or whether Tom or Joe is an intellectual who consorted with the intelligentsia. The new wife installs a new social order that is congenial to her.

Many a man marries a pretty but common and uncultured girl, thinking that he can transplant her into his own social atmosphere, and that she will be accepted because she is his wife. But the experiment is rarely successful.

But the woman of position may marry a rough diamond and flaunt him in the face of the socially elect, and have him received into the inner circle, because she is one of those who belong. She knows the signs and the countersigns, and may pass in whom she will.

Aside from all question of heredity it is much more important for children to have a good mother than it is for them to have a good father, because the mother not only establishes their social position for them, but because her influence is the prepotent one in their lives. It matters little if he be broad and tolerant, if she is narrow and prejudiced; it matters [illegible] if she is ignorant and unrefined.

The underbred, vulgar, uncultured woman will bring her children up according to her own ideas. They will be uncouth, young hoodlums, intent only on material pleasures, with no appreciation of the things that are fine and beautiful in life. Their father may break his heart in disappointment over them, but nothing that he can do will undo the handiwork of their mother.

But if a woman is strong of will and purpose; if she loves learning; if she is ambitious, her children will win out in the race of life.

Mothers can work miracles. If a woman is determined that her children shall have a good education she will see to it that they get through college, by hook or crook, and some way she will make her house a place where culture and refinement reign, though it be the humblest cottage.

If a woman is determined that her children shall get on in the world she will make of her own shoulders a ladder on which they will climb to success. She will breed into the very marrow of their bones and infuse into their very souls the grit and determination and the pep and enthusiasm that carry men and women to to their goal.

The mother's influence so dominates the child that I sometimes think that the recipe for making a successful man is to have a some-account mother and a no-account father.

For the some-account mother supplies the energy and the ambition to a boy, and the no-account father forces upon the boy the necessity of using his talents to the utmost. At any rate, if you will call the roster of the great men in this country you will find that almost every one of them was the result of this combination. They all had great mothers and fathers who didn't amount to much. But the great men who had great fathers, and silly, weak mothers are scarce as hens' teeth.

All of which goes to show that, in the family team, the gray mare is the better horse.

GERALDINE'S FASHIONS HOME AND ABROAD

Cry of Geraldine's SHOULDER

I STAND this minute as a protector of the young, and it is a thankless job. However, I shall be firm and not print the writer's name and address. If I did, every bunco artist and shark in town would be pleading in soft dulcet tones to be this little girl's protector. She is not too old to learn, and had better start right now managing her own estate—or she won't have any.

Dear Geraldine:

I am an orphan girl, nineteen years old, and regret very much to say I am one that at my age I find the world in which I am living a selfish place to dwell; especially my own set.

I was recently engaged to a nice young man of twenty-four and we had our honeymoon planned and everything. He was an accountant by occupation and had a large clientele of customers on his books, and apparently had a real ambition in life; though I trusted him too much and let him go out to places at night without me and he met some glib-tongued woman physiologist of a designing variety about thirty years of age, who had the advantage of an unlimited knowledge of men from two previous marriages, and vamped my lovey from me.

GLIB-TONGUED YOUNG WOMAN GETS HIM

Geraldine, he seems happy with her and I gave him back the ring and his gifts. I can only wish him luck. She has nothing to offer him but a soul that has been burned in too many fires to be anything other than a fleeting shadow.

I own a thirty-acre vineyard in Fresno that my mother left me and three flats in Oakland, and Geraldine, I have had only a high school training and was never taught to handle funds or work. Will you please publish this note in your columns?

I would like to meet some nice man, past thirty, who would be nice to me and appreciate a good girl and help me manage my little farm in the summer and we could live in one of our flats in the winter.

I am a brunette and of a tiny stature and my friends say I am nice looking. I would not consider a man of a low order of intelligence, only one who is sincere need write.

Thanking you, Geraldine, and I trust that this hastily written letter will find someone who is in the same fix as I am at the present time. My heart is broken and I know there must be someone who will really help me.

Very sincerely,

M. M.

Yes, my dear, there are any number of men who would "really help you," but just think how happy and efficient you will feel when you learn to manage things alone. You'll find yourself in a perfect glow of pride in your own efficiency.

Here, Pals, is real friendship from our neighbor on the north:

Dear Jerry:

I pause at the door of your high tower. "Dare I enter?" I am a Canadian. Of course, it was the disillusioned tirade against the Canadian people brought me out to call on you. What a terrible indictment. That Canadians hate Americans. Could it possibly be true?

NOT ON THE TESTIMONY OF ONE WOMAN

Yet Disillusioned says she lived in Canada for twenty years. Dear Gang, don't believe it on one woman's say so.

I have lived longer in Canada than she has, and traveled from the middle west both east and west, north and south, lived among Americans, too, and never did I hear a murmur of hatred toward Americans from the lips of a Canadian. Always I have understood that we were living side by side, "two great nations," with respect and admiration for each other.

Perhaps I am wrong. Perhaps you do not admire Canadians, but believing that Disillusioned is wrong I have sent her letter to a Canadian paper and asked replies to be sent to Jerry. So, dear Jerry, if you are besieged in the near future with mail from Canada, you will know who to blame. I could not let her letter go unchallenged.

Judging by the way California met and entertained the British fleet, you do not hate the British. I tell you, Jerry, I read the papers and glowed with pleasure at the way you so royally greeted the Britishers and I feel like writing a great big "Thank you."

With best and friendliest thoughts for the Americans, I am,

ONLY A CANADIAN.

The woman who wrote the following letter says she is a "rattling good fighter." Probably she is, but she certainly did not read Sorrowful's letter correctly. Sorrowful didn't believe in cruelty to animals, deserted kittens, etc., and she said that neighborhood business was HER business. Of course, such a theory could be held by a nosey busybody, but Sorrowful obviously meant that the world's good was EVERYBODY'S business.

AGAINST CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

Dear Jerry:

Sorrowful's letter is the match that set off this firecracker that I am herewith exploding. The greater part of her letter I heartily endorse and agree with. That's in regard to more humane treatment of animals, and, like her, I cannot understand just why some do not teach their kiddies to be kinder to animals, but, no need going farther into that, for she amply expressed my views on that subject.

But what has put me holty-tolty on my ear is this: Just what does she mean by saying she, like H. G. Wells, thinks that everything that goes on in a neighborhood is their business, and that the Higher Deity will hold them guilty if they do not be their brother's keeper. Whoo-ee, who in the heck is she that she can question the Higher Deity's doings in putting just as good brains in the neighbors' noodles as she has? Gee-whiz, it's just such statements what make me want to go to war.

Now, I believe if something we know positively is absolutely wrong, and is a detriment to right living, or is positively unjust and against the law morally and legally, then a neighbor should butt in and try to rectify the wrong in the best way that is feasible, but this statement that what goes on in a neighborhood being everybody's business, well, let me tell you, Sorrowful, it just takes one of such brotherly neighbors to keep all the rest of the neighbors in hell and hot water, and ninety-nine times out of one hundred there is not a fragment of justice or right in their meddling, and I wonder what the Higher Deity thinks about that. Now, you may not have meant it in the sense I read it, but I can only judge by what I read, and I surely hope I have misinterpreted it, but if you meant it as I seem to think, why, for the love of all that's holy and rgihteous, let everyone who has a good strong arm bust that theory with a good, sharp ax, for the world founders on such brother's keeper business.

These people who want to be their brother's keeper must remember that GOD put brains and intellect in their fellow man's head just as well as in theirs and they have the same rights morally and legally to use those brains. And another little item some of you brother keepers want to remember is this: There is not a living mortal who can enter the pearly gates of heaven on your ticket; each and every one must provide their own, and simply because others do not procure their tickets in the same manner as you do yours does not signify that they are not procuring their tickets by honorable methods and right living.

Well, that's enough, Jerry, on that topic, until I know whether she meant as I read it, but you can bet your last pair of rubber boots that I don't go much on this brother's keeper business. I think if each and every neighbor would attend to their own business, it would take every bit of ability and talent for right living that they possess, and oh how much happier their fellow man would be. In my day I've had a few of these brothers' keepers meddle in my affairs, and oh, boy, I never run around the block to tell them where to head in at. I remember quite well one incident about fifteen years ago. A neighbor preacher's wife meddled in a little difference that my seventeen-year-old daughter and I had. Well, she got a round on the mat. In 1914 her own daughter was sent to Salem, Oregon, penitentiary for arson, and my own daughter was married and both she and her husband were Christians in deed and word, and are to this day. I was not a born fighter, but some of these brother's keepers have made a rattling good one out of me.

WORK OF MEDDLESOME MATTIES

You'll believe in miracles after reading this letter:

Dear Geraldine:

As a reader of your page, I wish others would write and tell of things to make a house more homey and comfortable when it is nothing more than an old house twenty years or more old and needs lots of trimming on a slim bank account. Each week I add some improvements, but would like suggestions of what others have done. The only room that is just right is the kiddies' room and may I tell you about it?

Now, on $35 a week and three children you can't spend a lot, but I made up my mind they were the most important and their room came in for its share. First, I bought a half gallon of blue paint and painted the woodwork in their room and the bed. Maybe my landlord will [illegible] but they needed it anyway. My two boys sleep in this bed and the girl in an iron cot I bought second hand and also painted. Then I bought mosquito netting at 15 cents a yard and blue and white check gingham at 22½ cents, at a sale, making drapes out of the gingham and curtain centers out of the mosquito netting, and trimmed it with blue crocheted thread to match the drapes. Then I got some blue mull and covered this with more mosquito netting for bedspreads for the beds and worked a little embroidery design with blue thread, like the curtains.

NETTING AND GINGHAM UTILIZED

Then I needed places for their clothes and got some large packing boxes free from a downtown store and it cost me $1.25 to have them delivered home. Hubby made three dressers out of them by building shelves in them and draped more gingham over the front of them and mull and mosquito netting for the tops. Of course, painting them blue. I bought three looking glasses about 12 inches square and hung on the wall above each dresser, one for each kiddie. I have bought pictures at the 15 cent stores and hung over bad spots on the walls and the room looks rather cute now. Of course, this all took a little time and cost me $18 all told, but it is worth the trouble to see how proud they are of their room.

Now I would like suggestions for my other rooms because they are not fixed up yet. We have only been in this house a month, but when I get through with my paint brush the landlord won't know it. I guess it won't hurt me or the house to fix it up a little, even if I only rent it.

Well, Geraldine, you are so wonderful that I know you won't think me conceited when I brag about my kiddies' room, but anyway they love and appreciate the one they call

MUZZER MINE.

Our Children By Angelo Patri

A FATHER

"Isabelle was pulling off a stocking. Her fingers were very little and the foot was pudgy so the stocking stuck. Isabelle panted a little, looked at father engrossed in his paper on the other side of the room and sighed, then tackled the stocking again. With much pulling and tugging it came off. Wearily she gazed at the other foot still clothed in its stocking. She looked from it to her father, then resignedly began tugging. Halfway along in the job she stopped and contemplated her world once more. Then she said, "How do you get a father?"

"Why, why," said mother, "You just have them."

"I know that. But how do you get them? I want a new father. I'm going to have one like Dorothy's. He's a mighty nice father. I'm going to get one like him. How do you get 'em?"

"What makes you want Dorothy's father," said father from his chair across the room. "Ain't I good enough?"

"No you don't pay any attention to me," said Isabelle gravely.

"What do you think I ought to do?" asked the startled daddy.

"You ought to take off my stocking when it sticks so hard. Dorothy's father does. And you ought to ride me on your back when I'm going upstairs to bed. And then you should take turns telling me stories. Mother has to tell them all the time and she gets tired. I get tired of her stories too. Dorothy's father tells fine ones abou a cat named Musty and her nine kittens and the nine kittens are bad and they have to be punished but sometimes they're good. 'En I'd like things out of your pocket and like that."

"I see," said father.

"Let's begin tonight," said Isabelle brightly. "You can carry me up and I'll tell you the story tonight because I know so many. 'En you can learn them."

"That will be fine," said father and began being father right away. You see he hadn't thought about it that way. There was always mother who did those things so much better.

"I've always envied the girls who have fathers," said a young lady in her first year in college. "Oh no, my father is alive but he never fathered us, not the least little bit and I've always so wanted a father."

Fathers haven't the slightest idea of what they miss by not taking their share of the children's love. By and by when the children are older and about to go away from home for good, a feeling of great loneliness steals over father. What has he left for all his struggle? What recompense for all the years he has worked to bring up these children and make a comfortable home for them? They come, they grew up and went away and that is about all he knows about them.

He can have a far richer life, a far richer memory, a far richer old age by taking his share of the children's love and affection. But service gains love and some way fathers leave the service to mothers. And that's too bad, all 'round.

CHAPTER 26.

(All Rights Reserved.)

When he did come it was almost a radiant Nancy that greeted him. She was whispy and thin in the coarse, faded gingham that sheathed her frail form but her eyes shone like stars with the joy of seeing him again.

With a little sobbing cry of joy she flew to his arms, into them and clung, clung closely as if never would she leave them again. Flattened her body against his until she seemed part of him. Tender, inarticulate utterances crept through her lips—the wordless language of love, but he understood it and held her very, very tight. Ah, he, too, had been hungry for this glad moment of meeting again.

The attendant slipped quietly out of the reception room and left them alone for a few moments.

It was a large, bare, room, almost unfurnished, with no homy touches. Just a scrupulously clean, highly polished floor with a clean, conservative rug in the center of it. A few straight backed chairs, and that was all. No pictures, no tables cluttered with magazines. No bright touches of color. A prison place, nothing more, with bars at the windows. A large, barren, chill room from which there was no escape except the one door that led out into the hall, and out there some attendant of the institution was always on guard, ready to halt and question any one who would attempt to pass down it and out into the glorious freedom beyond the wide stone steps that led from the reform school and out into it.

Freedom! Ah, how sweet it would be, thought Nancy, to have it once more. The right to come and go as she pleased. The right to tenderly lift her violin from its case when the mood dictated, and sweep the bow across it in an abandon of expression, with no frowns and no routine and tasks to be performed to forbid it. Oh, to be free! To be free to laugh and dream once more! To live her life as she wished! To love and see Paul every day of it! To escape from rules and people who never smiled— out, out into the world again with him! Half sobbing, half laughing, she clung to him and pleaded for him to take her away.

"How CAN I, Wistful Child?" he asked brokenly. "How can I take you away with me?"

"Find a way to do it. I cannot stand it here any longer. A year, almost I have been here. Oh, it seems ages." She lifted her eyes to his. The glad lights of a few moments before had died out. In their blue depth was nothing but pleading. He cupped the wistful face in his hand and rested his lips on hers.

"Poor little one," he murmured. "It is so cruel that this should have come to you. And yet," helplessly, "I can do nothing."

"You must! You must! Ah, if you only knew—if you only KNEW—how I dread the long lonely, silent nights—locked in like an animal in a cage! How terrible are the longer days with never anything to brighten them except a letter from you, and that letter must first be read by another. Nothing but rules—rules—rules and work. Ah, I have worked! Harder than I ever did at Todson's factory. Scrubbed floors! Worked in the laundry! All the work of the place must be done by the girls. Look at my hands!"

She extended them—the hands that had been like little white butterflies. They were red and eaten with strong soap, like the hands of her mother so long ago folded in rest over the quiet bosom. He caught them to him and kissed them.

"Poor little hands," he whispered. "Made only to be caressed and to play the violin."

"I have not tried to play for ever so long," she ended drearily. "My fingers are too stiff now, even if I had the time for practice."

He made an attempt to comfort.

"Almost a year has gone by," he said. "The other will pass, and then we will never be separated again."

"Another long year," her voice trailed sadly off. She glanced wistfully at the barred windows, at the beautiful well kept grounds just beyond them where she and all the other little inmates of the place were forbidden ever to wander. "An eternity. How can I ever stand it?"

He looked at her saddened face. The pity of it smote him. Suddenly a fear clutched at him.

"Have they been unkind to you—hurt you?" He asked quickly.

"This is a place of rules," she answered after a little pause. "As long as you never break one, you are not molested. They are neither kind or unkind. That is the pity of it," she was bitter. "You could go about so sick that you could hardly drag one foot after the other, you could be burning with fever, your heart could be breaking inside you, and no one would ever notice you, or ask you what was the matter. You are never noticed unless you break a rule. You are just one of several hundred girls—things that live and must be fed and allowed some sleep and rest, but if we have souls they have never discovered it—even on Sundays when we march into the chapel in long lines. Even that is done by rules—the hymns we sing. The sermons are preached for the good of our souls. We are sinners! That is accepted. Never are we allowed to forget it for one little minute—never can we romp and laugh and tell little secrets and be just girls. Tenderness, sympathy, understanding are not locked in here with us. We have broken the law. We are delinquent and bad! And sometimes we are punished—"

"My God, Nancy, have they ever punished you?"

"I have not broken any rules. But I have seen girls punished and heard it." She shuddered. "I have seen them white and frightened after punishment—I have seen them sullen and hard and bitter."

"You will never get that way? Sullen and hard and bitter?"

"Why shouldn't I?" She compressed her lips—quick fires of bitterness leaped into her eyes. "Isn't it enough to make me that way—shut up here—my freedom taken from me—shamed and disgraced, and by my own father? Do I not learn things here that make me feel as if I have lived a million years? Here, shut away from life, I have learned more about it from the girls that come in, some of them, from off the streets than I would ever have learned on the outside. Why shouldn't I get bitter and feel that life is rotten and unjust and hard?"

He lifted her face again. He looked into her eyes. For the moment the wistfulness and sweetness were gone. He saw only knowledge and bitterness there. Some of the fragrance had been brushed from the flower by the contacts of the last year. But could a flower of such sweetness and fragrance be forever blighted? But even as he asked himself the question the old tenderness and wistfulness came back she clung to him again hungrily and pleadingly. It had been but a passing outburst and railing at the unjustness of life.

"You will find a way to take me with you?" she pleaded.

And this time he answered, "I must, Wistful Child, I must."

And she knew that he would manage it. So she threw her fears and dread of the year to come aside for the moment. They sat down in two of the stiff backed chairs, very close to each other, and he held her hand and talked of himself—the strides he had been making of late toward the heights that she had first pointed out to him. He talked a little boastfully and boyishly, and as she listened she was filled with pride of him. Ah, he would get there! He would some day be one of the world's big men. She knew it! Why, already, see what he had done with the first chance he had ever had. Entrusted with the snappy little car and the company's money and a big portion of their business.

"I've had two carload orders this week," he told her speaking of the product that was the company's output. "Of course that means nothing to you, but some of the men don't get that much in a month. I've been feeling my way and know how I stand, and they are sending a man to Australia in a few months and the one that gets the most business will be the one to go."

She chilled.

"Would you go if they wished you to?"

"WOULD I? But"—gloomingly and depreciating his own value—"I'll never get a chance like that. I am not that much of a go-getter."

She put her own selsh fear aside for a second in her belief in him.

"You are, she answered, and if you got the chance you would make good."

"Do you know, little one, I believe I would? And I am going to work like the dickens for that chance."

Then he noted that she had gone suddenly white. But understanding came quickly.

"I know what you are fearing," he said gently. "You think that I would grab this chance and go away and leave you locked up here? Foolish child! As if I would go without you."

For the first time in what seemed ages she saw the old whimsical smile on his lips.

"No, I will take you with me." He said it as if the thing were settled and almost accomplished. "A plan comes to me. You be patient for a little while longer—smile if you can—and I will work to win this chance and if I get it then I will come to see you and get them to permit me to take you for a little ride in the machine—and we just won't come back. I will take you to Australia with me."

"But"—of course there must be a fly in the ointment, something to spoil every well-laid plan—"they will never permit me to go for a little ride with you."

"Say, are you telling me something about reform schools?" he laughed hoyishly. "Don't you know that I have had a LITTLE experience myself? They will let you go if I win their confidence—and that will be the big part of my job in the meantime. I stop this way about every three weeks. I'll come to see you each time—and then I'll spring it about the ride. But if they do send some one with us, I'll manage somehow. Now—smile!"

And the smile came out like a rainbow after a storm.

Things they Ask the Tribune

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

The TRIBUNE Information Bureau has received a number of letters asking for information in regard to the Mellon plan of taxation.

In practically all libraries and book stores there is a book entitled "Taxation," written by Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury. The book is a clear and concise explanation of his idea of taxation.

MY FAVORITE STORIES by IRVIN S. COBB

The Law of Supply and Demand

P. T. Barnum, at the outset of his career as a showman, originated the idea of the Happy Family, taking his cue from that prophecy of Holy Writ wherein it is stated that the lion and the lamb eventually shall lie down together.

The thing proved a sensation. On the opening day, following advertisements in the daily press, crowds flocked to Barnum's museum to stand, in front of a cage wherein, with no bars to separate them, were displayed a lion, a tiger and a panther, and in the midst of these a gentle lambkin, all four dwelling together in seeming amity. News of the marvelous wonder spread and the patronage increased by leaps and bonds. Nevertheless Mr. Barnum appeared, at times, worried.

When the spectacle was two weeks old a friend inquired of him how the Happy Family seemed to be getting along.

"Oh fairly well," said the great showman. "I am going to make a permanent feature of it if only the supply of lambs holds out."

My Husband's Love
Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

SECRET TUNNEL

ACROSS the emptied suitcase, Edwin Braithwaite looked at his wife as if he were seeing—and appraising—a stranger for the first time. Indeed, I think that was what she appeared to him in the novelty of having her overturn the habit of years so quickly and deftly as she had spread the contents of his suitcase upon the bed.

Then, as if involuntarily, his glance went to the four orphaned children whom he had taken into his care so gladly. Even to assuage the hunger of his soul so long starved for fatherhood, so many years denied the children of his own for which he had wished—were they worth the sacrifice of his routined comfort?

The question was written upon the big surgeon's face for anyone to read, and in it was the pathetic bewilderment of the boy which remains in almost every man, the boy who wants to be mothered, even though he may deny it vehemently and disdainfully. But almost as quickly the answer came into his face as his eyes caught the confiding smiles which the children were sending to the man whom they already idolized. He beamed upon them and turned the same smile upon his wife who, I observed, was furtively watching him under cover of sorting the contents of her own suitcase.

"You're the doctor this trip, Harriet," he drawled, "and I'll promise to be as meekly obedient as a probationer."

The tone and words were jesting, but there was something in the tender, luminous smile with which he regarded her, that made me catch my breath with relief. Big in mind and heart, as well as body, he had comprehended swiftly and surely th adjustment of their lives—inevitable because of the children they had adopted—which his wife was beginning, and he was gallantly assuring her of his cooperation. Harriet made him no reply, but her eyes were eloquent as she smiled at him, and then bent again to her work.

When we had finished, the luggage had been rushed to two suitcases and a large bag. The rest, also packed and strapped, were ready for me to take back to the farm, and Harriet and I sank into chairs with the enjoyable fatigue of a trying task well done.

"I'll defy anybody in the world to do better than this job," I said lightly.

"You mean tlo it," Edwin commented jocularly. "But don't hog all the credit, you two. I turned a pretty nifty trick mlself, if anyone should ask you."

"We'll see that you have credit in full," his wife smiled, and then Mrs. Bird's knock heralded dinner and for the next half hour we did full justice to a most substantial meal. When the last course was cleared away, she beckoned me out of the room.

"Get everybody ready," she said, "and come down those steps, out there ,to the room below here."

She indicated the stairs, up which I had come with her upon my return to New York, and nodding comprehension, I returned to the room and working swiftly with Harriet, soon had the children in readiness for the journey. Our own wraps were but the work of a few seconds and, picking up the luggage, we shepherded the children down the stairs to find Mrs. Bird standing flashlight in hand, in front of a door other than the big sliding double one which had admitted the car.

"Don't be frightened," she said smiling. "This is nothing but a short, underground tunnel to the outside garage, which we use in—stormy weather."

The perceptible pause, the slight stressing of the words, interpreted them sufficiently for us, and she led the way into the dark aperture before us with a caution to my brother-in-law:

"You're the only one who will have to stoop," she said. "But be careful here with the children. There is a short flight of steps."

Behind us a door slid to softly, and the dim light from the room behind us was blotted out. An eerie little feeling crept over me, which I think was shared by the rest of us, but Mrs. Bird was quick in reassurance.

"There aren't many people who know this is here," she said, "so we never leave the door open very long. I have the key to open it again."

We went down the flight of steps, traversed the narrow corridor, single file, then up another flight of steps to another door, looking as if it were a part of a wall.

Mrs. Bird unlocked the door, and the next minute we were in the outdoor garage at the rear of the grounds.

DORIS FULTZ.

There once was an aviator by the name of William Swift, but every one called him Sparks because he was so fast with his airplane.

One day he saw a camper leave a camp fire burning, so he brought the camper to the sheriff. When he came back another camp fire had started the forest on fire. He was flying for help when he saw the driver of a gasoline truck jump out of the truck and run for his life. Sparks landed on a hill where there was no fire. Then he drove the gasoline truck to a little town where there were many automobiles that were trying to escape the fire, but were out of gasoline. After Sparks gave them all gasoline he went back after his airplane. When he got to where he had left his airplane he found it all burned to pieces. He went back to the town and told them about his airplane. They felt sorry for him, so they all put in some money and bought him a fast airplane and gave him a gold medal for saving more than a hundred lives.

EMILIA BROVELLI.

Once upon a time there was a little boy named Harold. One day little Harold's mother went away and he was staying at his grandfather's. When his grandfather came in he left the gate open, and when little Harold saw that the gate was open he ran away. He ran to Bessie Anderson's and his grandfather had to go and look for him. Harold made believe he was a policeman and made an automobile stop because he was going to cross the street. All of a sudden his grandfather found him and when he got home he got a spanking and after that he never ran away again and was a very good boy.

CHRISTINE of the HUNGRY HEART

THE KINGDOM.

CHAPTER LV.

He took both her hands, and she looked up at him like a child, captured and afraid, and yet trusting. Neither spoke, for a long time. Then Dan said, with a great ache of pity and sorrow and love breaking his voice:

"Sis! My little girl——!"

And Chris, her hard little worn hands still tight in his, and her pale face turned toward him, swallowed hard and said bravely, with her old smile:

"I'm all right, Danny."

And for a while again neither could speak.

There was an old bench in the back yard, set against a crabapple tree that was now in full leaf. Presently they sat down, still united by their tightly-clasped hands, and Chris said, in a whisper, with wet lashes:

"Ah, Danny—Danny! I don't care what happens now! This—just once more—was all I wanted!"

"Chris!" was all he could say, unsteadily.

They began to talk, in brief sentences, and irrelevantly.

"Dan, how did you find me?"

"They told me, in the village, that you were at the de Blum place."

"Yes, but before that?"

A pause, then Dan said:

"Do you remember Lily Mortimer—the Amos Mortimers, in Washington?"

"I remember everything." Her pale, quiet voice seemed to Dan to come from another world, and to be as incongruous with his memory of Chrissie as was her thin body, and her graying hair, and her faded gown.

"Lily Mortimer was at a luncheon, here in Mill Valley, Chris, a few months ago. I've forgotten the name of the woman she visited. But she heard something of a Mrs. Stuart Knight—and she went to the kitchen door and looked in at you. My God—when she told me—!" said Dan, putting his head in his hands. Chris said nothing; her sad wise eyes moved over the great silhouette of the mountain.

A long silence, then Dan asked:

"He's still—?"

"Oh, yes," she answered quietly, "Just the same. Did Lily—say anything at the luncheon?"

"Not a word. She wasn't sure, you know, she was utterly dazed. But she came straight to me when she got back to Washington and then I knew. I knew where you had gone, that day—fool, fool, fool that I was not to suspect it before! I had sent Stuart some money, you know, and that was the last I had heard of him. I wrote the hospital, and they answered that he had been dismissed, in January—whenever it was! There were always months — years!—when he didn't send any word. I never thought—I never dreamed—"

"Dan—Betty Lou?"

"Ah, Chris, she's such a darling—such a delight to us all. Tall, and rather serious,—I wish you might have seen her in the Christmas play! And she graduates this June, you know."

Chris said nothing; she put her worn, thin hand tightly over her eyes.

"She has two heavy braids," Dan added, "and a white skin. She isn't like you. She's really most like—mother."

An exquisite look flashed into Chrissie's blue eyes.

"Dan, it's so sweet to have someone speak of mother again! Only you and I, in the whole world, remember mother, now!"

She took him in, after awhile, to look at Stuart, who was dozing Dan glanced from the figure in the bed, the flushed, heavy, twisted face about the grimed kitchen, and his eyes came back to Chris. But he said little.

Jeffy was splendid, a glorious boy And Alan? Very well. And had Chris heard—of course she had not—of Ivan Vianney's death, "going over the top" with the French company he loved?

Chris had seen it in a newspaper, strangely enough. She had been papering shelves in the cellar for Mrs. Boswell, down in the valley and had read of a memorial service for the young writer so untimely dead.

"Dan, must my Betty Lou know—all about her mother, some day?"

"Chris, she knows now. Girls—are different, now. She came and asked me, detail by detail a few weeks ago, and I answered her. I don't know how she had heard; she was not shocked, she seemed only a little sorrowful. She prays for you, Chris—"

"Ah, don't, Dan! I can't bear it."

She got up, and walked a few paces away, and came back again.

"Dan," she said. "You must tell her that you saw me, and that I am happy, and busy, and that I love her."

"Happy!" he echoed sadly.

"Happier," she affirmed steadily, "than I have ever been in my whole life. Ah, you don't think I mean that! But Dan, here in the cold and the dirt and the loneliness and the struggle—I've found my soul. I've found God—the Kingdom within. Do you suppose that mere bodily comfort, clothes and lights and food, can ever mean anything again to a woman who has had that? I've found heaven—eternity—right here in this world. Not for my children—not for anything, would I go back!"

"But Chris, if we placed him in a hospital, with two, or more, special nurses, wouldn't he be better off?"

"I was thinking of Stuart," she answered, after thought. "But even that I don't believe. You can't buy love—love that coaxes his soups and his cocoa into him, and smoothes his pillow all day and all night—as I do! And Dan," Chrissie added, with a ghost of her old delicious childish confidence creeping back into her manner, "sometimes I think we will work it out together—he and I. Just lately," she added, in a lower tone, with a cautious glance toward the cabin, "just lately he wants me to—to say my prayers at night, beside him. If I kneel down by the chair in the kitchen, he calls me. I can understand what he means, just by the tone. He doesn't say words, you know," she finished, with an upward glance.

"I see, dear," Dan said gently, smiling with brimming eyes.

"I can't understand it all," she began again presently, holding his hand, and fondling it between her own, and now and then raising it quite unconsciously to her cheek, to hold it there. "And I can't judge for other women—perhaps there have to be divorces, legal separations. But then let the marriages be just legal affairs too! Mine wasn't; it was a sacrament, a promise to God that covered all the future—sickness and health, everything—until death. How could the law absolve me? It was a spiritual covenant—not a mere legal contract. It would be as absurd to baptize a baby one day, and then go to—well, to your grocer and ask him to cancel it the next!

"Oh, I know it, Danny. The world and the law and public sympathy might stand back of me, but I know well that I was wrong. If spiritual things mean anything, they mean that. To some women they don't mean anything, to some people there's just this world. But not to me! I can't find it for you, or you for me—but there is a way—and the surer you are of it the less sure you are of all the silly values of the world!"

HOW TO TORTURE YOUR WIFE ---By Webster

Uncle Wiggily

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE COLD CAKE.

"My goodness! Are you going out again today?" called Nurse Jane to Uncle Wiggily one morning, as she saw him looking for his golf cap under the piano.

"Why, yes, I am," answered the bunny gentleman. "Did you want me to bring you anything from the store?"

"I wanted you to stay at home with me today," spoke Nurse Jane, sort of switching her tail from side to side, disappointed like. "I thought maybe you would play tiddily winks."

"Bless my pink nose!" laughed the bunny. "Tiddily winks is a game that is too tame for me. I must have some exciting adventure to make me forget how hot it is. Goodness! But it is going to be another warm day. I am going to the ice cave of Mr. Whitewash to keep cool. Better come with me, Nurse Jane."

"Thank you, no," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Since you opened the shut window for me, and started the electric fan, I am cool enough. I hope you have a nice time."

"Since I am going to an ICE cave, I think perhaps I shall have a NICE time!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "That's a joke, you see, Janie!" and he playfully poked her in the ribs as he hopped away.

When Mr. Longears reached the cave of the ice bear, Mr. Whitewash wasn't at home, but Uncle Wiggily was expected for, hanging from an icicle, was a sign, made of snowballs, saying

SIT DOWN AND WAIT FOR ME.

"All right, I'll sit down and wait," said Uncle Wiggily. "But I must take care not to sit on a cold cake of ice or I might freeze fast. I will sit on one of the stone chairs." For Mr. Whitewash, being a big, strong polar bear, had in his ice cave chairs carved out of stone. They had seaweed cushions to make them soft for bunny rabbits.

Uncle Wiggily sat in the stone chair, and soon he began to feel so cool, on account of the cold cake, that he placed over the chunk of ice a bunch of seaweed that Mr. Whitewash kept for making cushions.

"I certainly am cool enough now," thought the rabbit, "though it is very hot outside." Just as he said this he heard someone coming in the ice cave. Thinking it was Mr. Whitewash, the bunny called:

"I've been waiting for you!"

"Yes, and I've been waiting for you, and now I have you!" howled a rough voice, and into the cave popped the Woozie Wolf.

"Oh—do you want me? asked Uncle Wiggily. "Oh—Oh—dear!" and he was quite out of breath from fright.

"Yes, I want you!" growled the Wolf. "I am going to take you off to my den!"

"Would you mind—would you mind waiting until I get my breath back?" begged the bunny. "I couldn't walk this way—all out of breath—you—you frightened me so. Sit down and wait a minute," and Uncle Wiggily pointed to the cold cake of ice, over which he had placed some seaweed.

"Yes, I'll wait for you," growled the Wolf. Then, not knowing there was freezing ice under the seaweed, the bad chap sat down on it. Uncle Wiggily waited a few minutes, breathing hard and fast.

Then, all of a sudden, up jumped the bunny. He ran out of the ice cave, and the Wolf called:

"Wait, I'll go with you!" But when the Wolf tried to get up he couldn't, for he was frozen fast to the cake of ice and the seaweed. No matter how hard he pulled he couldn't get loose.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Longears outside the cave. "I guess you'll wait a long while for me, Mr. Wolf!" And the bad chap did, for he was still frozen to the ice when Mr. Whitewash returned. The Polar Bear gave the Wolf a whipping and then thawed him loose with some warm water and sent him away limping. So the bad chap didn't get the bunny.

And if the sunshine doesn't tickle the rubber doll on the end of her nose and make her sneeze, I shall tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the horse chestnuts.

A SILVER LINING.

"Rain!" moaned Billy Cut-out when he opened his eyes Saturday morning. "That means the game's off. We have the worst luck, all right!" He watched the streams of water pouring down the pane.

He looked so very blue all morning that Mrs. Cut-out felt sorry for him. "Put on your new yellow ramcoat and your rain hat, Billy," she called, early in the afternoon. "I want you to get a lot of things at the store. Just hand this list to the groceryman and he'll fill the basket."

The errand took Billy a long time. When he came in the house and opened the door there was a loud shout that nearly scared him out of his wits. All the boys on his team were there!

Mrs. Cut-out had a lot of games planned for them to play. After a while she called them all to the dining room, and when they saw the good things Billy had brought in his basket, they didn't mind missing their game at all.

ESTHER ATIS,
11 Years.

Once there was a girl named Lucina. She was very poor and lived with her mother five miles from the ocean.

One day she asked her mother if she could go to take a walk. Her mother said yes. So she went. She walked and walked til it was dark. She wanted to turn home but she was lost. And still she went on walking. It was very dark and couldn't see where she was going. The next minute she fell in a cliff right near the ocean, she didn't hurt herself, for it was full of sand. After she found out where she was she began to cry. But it was of no use so she went to sleep on the dry sand. In the morning she awoke and was very hungry. She went to the ocean and found some clams so she ate them. She was very lonesome, so she used to spend all her time picking pretty little stones which shined a whole lot in the sun. She used to save them in a big basket that she had woven from seaweed. Pretty soon she it filled to the top.

Meanwhile at home everybody thought her eaten up by some wild animal. They looked and looked for her but in vain.

One day a man was walking near the cliff, he saw Lucina, and called her. The man asked her what she was doing there.

She told him her story. He asked her if she wanted to go home. She said yes. It happened he had a rope with him. He tied it to a tree and told Lucira to tie her basket and herself to the rope which she did and got out of the cliff.

When she got home her mother was very glad to see her girl back.

When she was there for a few days her mother asked her what she did, when she was in the cliff. She said , then showed her the little stones that she used to pick. Her mother said, "At last we have found our fortune." For the stones were real pearls and diamonds.

Next day Lucina's mother went to a jeweler and showed him a pearl for which he gave to her five thousand dollars. After awhile, Lucina's mother bought a nice house in the city and the rest of the money she put in the bank. And she gave the poor money.

Lucina wore silk dresses and rings and bracelets and all kinds of jewelry. After awhile Lucina got married and lived happy till they died.

THE DOLL'S DISAPPEARANCE.

One day a girl decided to make a playhouse. She had until ten o'clock that morning as she was going to have a girl friend over to play with her. Mary (which was the girl's name) started to make the house. She saw a spot over by a tree. The tree was not in her yard but was in Bobby Green's yard. She made the house of grass and made a nice soft bed of grass. Then she went in and got her doll and brought it out and laid it on the bed while she finished the rest of the house. She never paid much of attention to her doll. It was near 10 o'clock when she went in to get her tea set. When she came out she noticed that her doll was gone. Betty (which was the other girl's name) came over. She brought her doll over the play with Mary's doll. Mary said her doll had disappeared. So they commenced to look for it. They looked everywhere but could not find it. Mary happened to look up and she saw her doll tied in a string hanging in the air. She just started to get it when it went up again. The doll came down again, this time Mary caught it. She untied the string when she looked up and saw Bobby Freen up in the tree with a fishing pole with a string tied to it which was [illegible] said, "I bet you did that to get an invitation to come to our little tea party." And Bobby said "that they had guessed right." So Bobby went to the tea party.

LITTLE ANN.

Once long ago there lived a poor little girl whose name was Ann. Ann lived all alone in a small attic. There were only a few rags for covers. Her bed was of dirty straw.

Little Ann never knew what it was to have a bed with clean sheets and blankets. She never had a doll to play with and always wanted one.

One day she was sitting on the steps of some one's house, when she felt a hand on her shoulder. She looked up and there was the lady of the house.

"Come in, little girl," said the lady of the house.

After the lady had given her some food she asked Ann where she lived. When Ann told her the lady said:

"Ann, you are going to live with me."

Ann was very happy because she had a good home and a pretty doll.

THE HAUNTED HOUSE.

There once lived a boy named Bob. He liked to seek adventures.

Over the hill from Bob's house was a house which was haunted. He asked his mother if he could go to the house for the night. After a while his mother said he could go. He was so happy he could hardly wait for night.

About 7 o'clock he started. When he reached there he looked around and found a bed and went to sleep. He was awakened about midnight by a noise. He saw ghosts and got so scared he ran home.

The next morning he told his mother about it. He went outside and sat down and wondered what it was last night. So he wanted to find out.

That night he went again. About 12 o'clock he heard a noise. The ghosts had come again. He pulled the sheets off the ghosts and found they were his friends. After that he never was afraid.

FOUR SPECIAL WIRE SERVICES

850 CARLOADS OF GRAPES SHIPPED EAST PER DAY

Prune Picking Completed; Rice Prospects Good But Bean Crop Is Poor.

Weather conditions during the first two weeks of September were generally beneficial to agriculture in California, says the California Cooperative Crop Reporting Service. Temperatures along the coast were moderate although considerable cloudiness and fog prevailed. In the interior sections the weather was generally warm and temperatures of over 100 degrees were experienced. A few light showers occurred in various sections of the state, but they were of little consequence to agriculture; however, the danger of forest fires was lessened to some extent. Reports from the San Joaquin Valley indicate that the grape crop was slightly damaged as a result of the high temperatures that prevailed in late August.

GRAPES GOING EAST.

Grape shipments to eastern markets have been steadily increasing and are now moving out at the rate of about 850 cars a day, but on September 5 the daily movement reached a total of 1045 cars. The season's movement up to and including September 13 was 16342 cars, compared with 12,651 at that same time a year ago. The 1924 crop, including all three classes of grapes—wine, raisin and table—is estimated to be lighter than in 1923 and the comparatively heavy movement to date is due to the grapes maturing earlier than usual as conditions this season have been conducive of the development of sugar. Grapes intended for raisins are curing rapidly under the existing favorable weather and reports indicate that some of the Thompson seedless have completed the drying process.

PRUNES ALMOST PICKED.

Most of the prunes have been picked and the drying of the crop is now at its height. The fruit is of good size in the districts where orchards had sufficient moisture during the growing season, but in the unirrigated sections and where red spider damaged the crop the fruit is smaller than usual. The present crop is estimated to be below that produced in 1923. Peach drying was practically completed and from all indications the dried peach crop will be below early estimates. The harvesting of figs, apples, almonds and late pears continued, while the plum harvest came to a close. The plum crop is estimated to be about 60 per cent of last year.

Rice prospects continued good and the crop is rapidly maturing as conditions have been very favorable. Cutting has been in progress for a week or so in some of the early districts. The bean harvest is now becoming general and where the crop has been irrigated fairly good yields are being obtained, but where unirrigated the crop is generally poor and in some instances a complete failure.

PASTURE AND STOCK.

There has been little change in the condition of pasture and livestock during the past fortnight. Pastures on the average are affording very little feed which is necessitating the feeding of much more hay than usual for this time of the year.

Reports generally indicate that there is sufficient labor for all needs throughout the state and in most districts the demand is below the supply. Very little difficulty has been experienced this season in financing the production or harvesting crops.

Los Angeles Oil Output Shows Drop

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—Production in the major Los Angeleson fields averaged 337,850 barrels a day last week against 338,850 daily in the previous week. The chief loss was in the older fields, which, exclusive of Dominguez, totaled 308,200 barrels daily against 310,500 in the previous week. Dominguez, with twenty-one producers, totaled 29,650 barrels daily, which is considerably below the quantity predicted for this field six weeks ago, indicating that the big companies are holding down the producers and that the new wells are hardly up to expectations.

Rosecrans has five producing wells and is making less than 5000 barrels daily, although there are more than fifty rigs in the field. Experts predict this will develop into one of the largest producing areas in the South.

SEAL CATCH OF PRIBILOFF ISLAND IS TAKEN BY U. S.

Boxer Collects Catch and Reports Movement of the Arctic Vessels.

ABOARD COAST GUARD CUTTER HAIDA, ST. PAUL ISLAND, Sept. 17.—(By wireless to the Associated Press).—This year's seal catch at the Pribilof Islands, government seal preserve, is to be taken to the States by the United States Bureau of Education vessel Boxer, stated a message received by the Haida.

The Boxer is on a cruise from Nome to Wainwright with alcohol supplies. She has been delayed in her work by assisting the schooners Arctic and Lady Kindersley, which were frozen in the ice.

Numerous movements of vessels in the far north have been received by the Haida from Nome. The schooner Nanuuk was reported from Sartar Island, Camden Bay, on the northern coast of Alaska, August 8, All aboard were said to be well.

Mail on the Maid of Orleans and Orion wassed into the Artic Ocean by Point aBrrow, August 1. The schooner Herman left Nome September 7 on a walrus and whaling cruise into the Arctic ocean. The vessel Sea Wolf, which left Nome August 26 on a training trip to Siberia, was reported fast in the ice off Cape Serdze, Siberia.

The gas vessel Cub, which arrived at Nome September 13 from East Cape, Siberia, reported heavy ice along the Siberian coast.

The season's activities of canneries have closed. All of the cannery vessels have left.

The whaling station at Akutan, northeast of Unalaska, eastern Aleutians, is still running. The work, however, has been interfered with by fog and heavy weather. The station reports the whales taken larger than those caught in many years, although the number has been small.

Reports have been received by the Haida that a large consignment of sheep will be landed at Chefnofsiki, Unalasha Island, which will augment the herd landed last year, and at Nickolski on Umnak Island, eastern Aleutians.

"ASK THE ENVELOPE" AND KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT

HOWARD USED CARS

It doesn't make any difference whether a boy's father is a bank president or the son of a ditch-digger—the best place to start work is—at the bottom. It doesn't make any difference how good a USED CAR looks when it is traded in to us—the only way to find out "what's what" is to dig right down into the "insides," examine every wearing part and renew where necessary. Because this is our "ASK THE ENVELOPE" Policy, we do not hesitate to guarantee our USED CARS, and our customers experience that peace of mind that makes for satisfied ownership.

NEVADAN ON WAY TO IDENTIFY KIN

Whether the mysterious Mrs. Oldfield of Ely, Nev., is the daughter of E. D. Day, 634 Eighteenth street, is the subject for police investigation today. Day communicated with Captain William Kyle yesterday, declaring that the description of the woman who called a taxi last Sunday to take a two weeks' old babe to the Salvation Army home and then disappeared, answers that of his daughter whose home was in Ely, Nev. Today Day will be shown the babe in an attempt to identify it as his grandchild.

After calling the taxi and instructing the driver to take the infant to the Salvation Army home on behalf "of a friend of hers," Mrs. Oldfield disappeared from the Avalon hotel, 2019 Telegraph avenue.

Mrs. Oldfield is in hiding in San Francisco, according to the Oakland police. A note left in her rooms at Hotel Avalon threatened suicide.

Helen Wills to Be C. of C. Guest At Civic Dinner

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—With Helen Wills, Berkeley's famous young tennis star as the special guest of honor, the Chambe of Commerce of the college city will formally open its expansion week campaign on Saturday night with a banquet to be held at the Armstrong school.

Miss Wills, although reticent at accepting public tribute, gave her consent to be an honor guest at the gathering because of the nature of the civic gathering.

Among the speakers will be President William W. Campbell of the University of California; Mayor Frank D Stringham and Joseph R. Knowland. President E. F. Loudeck will preside at the speakers' table, while Neil Munro and Herbert Jones will be in charge of the two competing divisions of workers. Banners designating the teams will be placed in the banquet hall, these being designed by Roger Noble Burnham and Merodene Keeler.

STANDARDIZATION WILL CUT COST OF NEW SCHOOLS

Oakland Assured of Getting Money's Worth on Bond Issue, Says Goodrich.

"Oakland is the fastest growing community of its size in America," said Leroy Goodrich yesterday during a talk before the Thirty-eighth Avenue club. "We are growing so fast that we have outgrown our school facilities. As a result one-quarter of the classes of the Oakland school department are now being conducted in makeshift shacks which are poorly ventilated and in which the sanitary conditions are deplorable. It has been found that much of the illness among the school children has been traced to these conditions.

"The bond issue calls for the expenditure of $9,600,000 and will provide 362 new class rooms for our high and junior high schools and 388 new classrooms for the elementary schools. In addition it will replace the Garfield and Cole schools, which were recently burned. It will take our school children out of the shacks and place the min modern class rooms. It will give us an opportunity to catch up in the matter of school construction.

"Some time ago the school board appointed W. E. Whelan, a practical contractor and building expert, as superintendent of construction. Whelan visited every large city in the country and made a survey of their school construction plans. In Cleveland he found they had evolved a plan which was producing a maximum of school construction at a minimum of expense by the application of standardization.

"This plan has been adopted by our local board of education and will govern the construction of the new schools. A standard class room is established, not only as to size, but as to materials and equipment. These standardized class rooms are then formed into units. Each unit will accommodate a given number of pupils with the necessary accommodations for teachers, assembly halls and such features.

"This plan has been endorsed by practically every business man in this city. Among the endorsements of the school bonds you will find those of the Chamber of Commerce, the Community Council, which represents the Lions Club, the Kiwanis, the Mutual Business Club, the Optimist Club, the Soroptomist Club and all our service organizations. The Up-Town Association, representing the property owners north of Fourteenth street, has also endorsed the bond issue.

"The law requires that every child be given an education. Without funds to furnish proper facilities we will continue with the portable shacks and have to build more of them. And as taxpayers you will be interested to know that it will cost us more money to build portable shacks under a direct tax than it is going to cost us to build permanent schools under the bond issue."

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Anthony Cioffo, captured last night after a policeman was stabbed while defending Lieutenant Antonio Locatelli, the Italian aviator, from the attack of a mob, today confessed that he intended to assassinate the aviator, according to the police. Cioffo admitted being a member of the I. W. W. and said that he came from Chicago to kill Locatelli because of the airman's fascisti activities, the police said.

More than sixty policemen guarded Locatelli as he was leaving the opera house. Standing on the running board of the aviator's automobile, Patrolman Edward Trumph was stabbed three times.

Tombstones of Berkeley's Fire Crash Before the Advance of Progress

One year ago this afternoon a roaring forest fire swept down over Berkeley's most beautiful residential district, leaving in its wake a blackened field of destruction, cluttered with smouldering ruins. The upper picture, taken by a TRIBUNE staff photographer the day after the fire, presents an accurate, wordless description of the toll taken by the fire fiend. The middle picture shows the district as it looks today. The comparison is striking. Both pictures were taken from the same spot—on a knoll north of the home of Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president emeritus of the University of California.

244 Buildings Replaced Out of Total of 588 Destroyed in Disastrous Berkeley Conflagration of Year Ago

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—Today, one year after the most disastrous fire in the history of the city, Berkeley sat back and took stock of itself.

The outstanding feature of the "one year after" celebration is the large number of buildings erected in the devastated area to take the place of those destroyed last year. Fire Chief G. Sydney Rose estimates that one-third of the destroyed buildings have been restored.

Records of Building Inspector Stanley Koch show 244 permits issued for buildings in the fire area valued at $1,862,349 for the year ending last night. Official records of the fire department place the number of destroyed buildings at 588, which would bring the percentage of rebuilt structures a trifle higher as based on building department records.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS.

Berkeley's other outstanding achievements since one of the most beautiful residential districts in the entire bay region was swept by flames are:

Development of a hillside of architecturally beautiful, fire-resistant dwellings.

Expenditure of practically $3500 for fire-protection purposes in the surrounding hill regions where the fire originated; this sum being used for construction of a road to Grizzly Peak, where lookout tower and fire warden's station have been completed.

Assurance that Berkeley will have more adequate water protection as a result of an order from the railroad commission for the construction of 25 miles of new mains and installation of 175 additional hydrants at estimated cost of $425,000.

TWO NEW FIRE UNITS.

Ordering of plans for two new fire houses, one to replace the burned structure at LeRoy and La Loma avenues, and the other to be erected at Spruce and Arch streets. This means the addition of one entirely new hose-chemical company to the city's fire-fighting forces.

Formation of volunteer fire-fighting organization of city employees and the creation of an emergency service whereby all necessary agencies which can in any way aid Berkeley in time of need can be summoned without delay.

City officials and home owners alike lost no time in meeting the situation. In the burned district hardly were embers cool before plans for new homes were being made and within a month after the fire construction work was started on several homes.

Berkeley in its restored hillside region can now boast one of the most artistic residential regions in the state. The fire has brought a revival of the early California type of architecture and the Spanish motif, carried down from the days of the dons, predominates the hill region.

The distinction of building the most expensive structure in the fire area belongs to J. C. Sperry, who recently took out a permit for a dwelling at Hawthorne Terrace and Vine street to cost $68,107. The Japanese Students' club of the University of California took out the last permit of the year to replace its building on Euclid avenue near Le Conte at a cost of $25,000.

Some of the statistics summarizing achievements of the past year and recounting losses of the fire follow:

Total building permits in fire area since September 17, 1923, 244, representing valuation of $1,887,349.

Total permits for entire year ending today, 3221, with valuation of $9,873,627.45.

Assessed valuation of burned buildings, $1,458,625; total represented in actual taxation, $23,338.

Underwriters' estimates of fire loss $7,798,524.28.

Insurance carried, $4,287,130.24; losses paid $3,548,076.09.

'Golfer' Poison Is Bought for Animal Pest

WATSONVILLE, Sept. 17.—"Small bottle of strychnine for golfers" was the penciled order handed to E. W. Hanson, local druggist, yesterday by a small boy who said his father wanted a reliable rodent eradicator.

Hanson hastened to warn the members of the Watsonville golf club of their threatened extermination and a consultation was held to consider a counter campaign. It was the consensus of opinion after the conference that the purchaser of the strychnine had merely used a simplified spelling and inadvertently inserted a superfluous "l" in his spelling of the word gopher.

"The Winking Eye"

and now the POWOW

FIERCE in war paint and feathers, Indian braves used to hold a "powow" when planning an attack against a common enemy.

Today, in many an American home, the members of the family put their feet under the table and discuss ways to defeat a present-day enemy---HARD WORK. This is the modern "powow."

Friend Husband generally starts off like this: "I won't stand for your being all tired out every night. There's too much scrubbing going on in this house. Can't you find some better way?"

And the Wife replies: "I'm hoping so. I heard this afternoon of a new cleaner just out—something called POWOW. I'm going to try it!"

Perhaps in your home you, too, would like to find a short-cut to household cleanliness. Try POWOW! It is new and entirely different from what you are accustomed to use.

POWOW keeps bathrooms bright, and kitchens spotless with less effort on your part.

In tomorrow's TRIBUNE we will show you the many uses of POWOW.
